Doctor Saves 29-Oz. Baby

Born prematurely, 15 minutes before arrival of a doctor, Boston's tiniest baby, a 29-ounce girl, made her entrance into the world today.

The mother, Mrs. Lorraine Gadman, 28, of Templeton street, Dorchester, had not realized her condition, according to her husband, Frank A. Gadman.

Only he and an unskilled woman neighbor were present to attend her at the time of the birth.

BREATHES INTO CHILD

Their frantic calls for aid brought to the scene Dr. Solomon Z. Bell of Park street, Dorchester.

He put his mouth to the child's and forced air into its lungs, then used a pressure method of artificial respiration.

When the mite began breathing normally Dr. Bell packed her in cotton and put her in an improvised incubator made of a basket and hot-water bottles.

Assuring himself that Mrs. Gadman's condition was satisfactory, the doctor raced by auto to the Fields Corner police station to get an ambulance.

With Patrolman Thomas Sullivan at the wheel, the ambulance took the Gadman infant, "incubator" and all, to Children's Hospital in Longwood avenue.

There the baby was put at once in a special, air-conditioned nursery, designed for such cases.

Later she was placed in an individual incubator where the tem-

Stocks Show Little Pep

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP) — Stocks found buying props in today's market after light offerings had unsettled the list in the morning.

Although volume contracted, early losses running to $1 a share or so were reduced on converted into gains of as much around noon. Profit-taking intervened near the final hour. There was no especial pickup in activity.

Maine Yard Wins Destroyer Bids

WASHINGTON, July 22 (INS)—The Navy Department today announced the award of contracts for construction of four new destroyers. Two will be built by the Bath Iron Works, Bath, Me., to be delivered at the Boston Navy Yard in 28 and 30 months.

Excitement ran high today at the Kitty Brando morals trial in Brookline court when opposing counsel were near to fisticuffs and cries of "cattle" and "racketeers and their counsel" were hurled across the room.

The verbal battle and threats of personal encounter brought the gavel of Judge Robert W. Frost crashing down on the bench for order and the words:

"If counsel have any more remarks of a personal nature, make them outside of the courtroom."

Two hours later the taking of testimony ended in the case, and counsel prepared for their summations.

The battle started after Mrs. Kitty Brando, pretty and dark-haired 32-year-old hostess at the Brown Derby night club had testified spiritedly that she never had been alone in a room with Band Leader Jimmy McHale.

The morals charge was brought

Doug Spurns $250,000

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

DUBLIN, July 22—Douglas Corrigan has tossed away $60,000 a day for the last four days, and today he was proud, in a quiet way, that he has not accepted a nickel of the quarter million dollars offered him since he landed from New York.

U. S. IN EIRE—Non-Stop Corrigan gets a big welcome from Secretary McKeagh of the American legation in Dublin after his solo hop over the Atlantic. Photo was flown to New York by Pick-a-Back plane.

Maybe one of the reasons why the young flier is turning down scores of offers is that matrimony, equally with money, has no place in his design for living.

Corrigan told me he has no girl, never had a girl, and never intends to have a girl.

"Why?" I asked him.

"Because I never take a chance—I never gamble," he said with the same Irish humor that still enables him to assert that he flew the Atlantic by mistake.

IN SHIRT SLEEVES

This brought an explosion of laughter from the diplomats around the hearth of United States Minister John Cudahy in Phoenix Park, where the erstwhile airplane mechanic occupies the seat of honor as the most distinguished guest who has come to the legation since Charles A. Lindbergh visited Dublin.

All the others wore dinner jackets, but Corrigan's shirt sleeves were recognized as no less correct.

Only one thing does Corrigan now desire. That is a job in an airplane factory.

It does not have to be a good job—just any old job where he can use his hands and his head and build.

"I can live fine on $50 a week," he said, "I don't need any more."

He really means what he says when he declares he has no use for money:

"I have already turned down $25,000 that somebody in New York offered me, because I didn't know what I wanted to do with it.

"I wouldn't take a cent, except for regular work in the airplane industry—no stage, movies, radio or any other kind of ballyhoo stuff."

FAMILY OUT

I suggested to Corrigan that maybe he would need money some time when he gets a family.

"I ain't never going to get one!" he protested. "I know machines—they are safe, and you can tell what they are going to do.

"You can never tell what a woman is going to do—I'm sticking to machines."

Pope's Plea: Combat Aryanism

CASTEL GANDOLFO, July 22 (INS)—Pope Pius today lashed out again at nations that seek so-called "racial purity."

In a direct assault upon the racial policies of Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany the Pontiff called upon 150 ecclesiastical assistants of Catholic Action, who visited him at his summer palace, to battle with renewed vigor against Italy's current scheme of "Aryan purity."

Speaking in a voice unusually firm, the Pontiff declared:

"It is something detestable, this spirit of separation and exaggerated nationalism. Just because it is not Christian it will end up by not being human.

"Catholicism is universal. It is not racial, nor is it nationalistic, nor is it separatist—it is catholic, and there must be Catholic action.

"It must be inspired by this spirit, because there is something better than faith itself, and that is the formula of faith.

"Likewise there is something worse than the formula of race and nationalism. The spirit is more important.

"It is the spirit of faith which must be brought in everywhere. Otherwise other spirits will invade the heart and mind of man.

"To save Catholic Action must be the same as saving Catholic rights."

Hiss, Cheer Dan Doherty

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—Daniel L. Doherty, National Commander of the American Legion, turned hisses into applause last night when he parried audience resentment at a remark about "Red professors" with the statement that the "freedom and democracy" of America made both the remark and the heisses possible.

Doherty spoke before the Teachers' College of Columbia University, which recently published a thesis criticizing Legion leaders as "reactionary." The thesis, written by Professor William Gellerman of Northwestern University, accused the veterans' leaders of a policy that throttled rank and file sentiments.

Doherty did not refer to Gellerman in his address, but he appealed to Columbia to rid itself of "baleful influences."

"The time has come to draw the line between educators and propagandists," he said.

"If it were not for public apathy and listlessness toward the responsibilities of citizenship, we would not have these Red professors.

Hisses interrupted him, but he waited until the noise subsided and then went on:

"The only right you have to hiss me is because this is a free and untrammeled democracy.

Applause greeted the retort.

Parade Tonight Ends YD Tour

BOURNE, July 22—CRASH! R-r-r-roo-oo-oom! Bang! Smash! Crash!

An inferno of noise—flashes of white flame slashing down upon the 1500 tents of Massachusetts' Yankee Division.

It might have been the Western Front—

But it was only the rain.

The Yankee Division's camp here was deluged early today — a rain that lasted through reveille, with regimental bands gurgling and choking as the water ran down trumpets and tubas and turned wet drumheads into soggy paper.

Eight thousand militiamen huddled under dripping canvas throughout the day, packing for home. They will break camp tomorrow, their two weeks' tour of duty ended.

First units are expected to move out at 4 a. m.

It will be impossible, however, to roll and pack tents until the canvas is dry. Details will remain behind for this task.

Tonight, weather permitting, there was to be a final parade, with presentation of various trophies to units and individuals.

Despite the inclement weather, which necessitated cancellation of field maneuvers, guard officers expressed themselves as well pleased with the results of this year's training.

Noise Bans New Navy Ship

(Copyright, 1938)

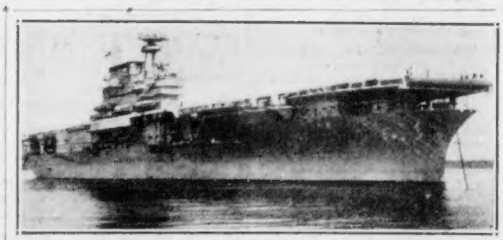

WASHINGTON, July 22 (INS)—The $22,000,000 aircraft carrier Yorktown, scheduled for commissioning into the battle fleet 11 months ago, is still in dock at the Norfolk Navy Yard, unaccepted by the navy on account of machinery noise.

Navy officers said the fault, discovered and corrected in the Yorktown's sister carrier Enterprise, will probably subtract several hundred thousand dollars in penalties from the profits of the firm which built both ships.

The case is the first on record wherein the navy has withheld acceptance of a warship on account of noise. Penalties arise from failure to deliver the ships on the contract date.

Contracts for the Enterprise and Yorktown uniquely specified the limit of decibels of sound the navy would tolerate in the engine rooms.

The Yorktown was first to undergo trials. In runs on Chesapeake Bay the gears created what a ranking officer called "a boiler factory racket."

Debut Draws Bid

By MARJORIE McBRIDE

Sally Clark was the object of Hollywood's attention today.

On hand for her debut as a night club entertainer, a scout from Twentieth Century-Fox came over from New York to "spot" Sally's act at the Ritz Roof last night and offer her a screen test.

And Sally was definitely interested.

It wasn't the sort of debut polite society expects of the daughter of one of Boston's first families. It wasn't a curtsy to the social whirl, but a glamorous bow as a professional entertainer.

Now it develops that if society has missed Mrs. F. Haven Clark's little girl in the ranks of demure debutantes, patrons of the swanky Ritz Roof are the gainers.

Sally, of course, is the sister of Anne Clark, bride of John Roosevelt. But with her first performance last evening, she told this reporter she has forever turned her back on society "as such."

She's out to make her own way in the world. Dancing and singing. For the movies? Well, maybe!

STAMP OF APPROVAL

And last evening's audience, watching and listening with a curious hushed admiration, put its stamp of approval on the young lady's departure from Blue Book department.

Joseph Holton, New York representative of Twentieth Century Fox, was impressed with her act.

"She's got 'umph' and with a

SALEM, July 22—A petition for separate support brought by 19-year old Mrs. Julia A. Blaisdell of Newburyport was denied today in Salem probate court, and her husband Gilbert, was awarded custody of their five-months-old son.

Mrs. Blaisdell charged that her husband and his two spinster aunts deprived her of possession of the child and ordered her out of the 15-room house where they were living last May 22.

Judge John A. Costello granted Blaisdell's petition for a legal separation on grounds of desertion after he testified his wife was neved home to take care of the child, and that she complained about "living a small-town life."

RICHARD WHITCOMB FOR GOVERNOR

Jamis Dempsey, 19 Duxbury Rd., Newton Centre.

Tailor Goes 'Ponzi'

A West Newton man who started a Charlestown dry cleansing business "on a shoestring" found himself in trouble today because prosperity came too fast.

He started in by pawning half his customers' suits, using the pawn money to have the other half cleansed, then using part of his profits to redeem the suits at the pawnshop.

Business increased so fast, however, that he had 35 suits and fur coats "in hock" today with not enough ready cash to retrieve them for impatient customers. So police were forced to detain him on suspicion of larceny of the clothing.

Farrar Voice to Lash Deal

The golden voice of Boston's Geraldine "Gerry" Farrar is going to be heard again—but not in the glorious operatic arias which won her world fame.

Now 56 years old and "done with with singing, forever," Miss Farrar today announced her intention of taking the stump as a political speaker against the Roosevelt "New Deal."

Miss Farrar

"Like a young soprano straining to reach High C, the New Deal wants too much, too quick," "Gerry" said.

"Perhaps the New Deal, like the would-be opera star, can learn, but we'll all be bankrupt trying to pay the bills for lessons."

Her garden, her dogs and her piano occupy most of Miss Farrar's time these days, at her home in Ridgefield, Ct.

In turning her attention to politics, she is perhaps yielding to an urge having its origin in her childhood.

Her dad was Syd Farrar of Melrose. He pronounced his name "FARrar," not "FarRAR"; was a one-time major league baseball player, and election campaigns thrilled him more than grand opera.

PLAYS BRIDAL MARCH FOR 3D GENERATION

WORCESTER, July 22 (AP)—Alfred H. Booth 82, organist, today played the music at the ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Janice F. Villis, of this city, and Paul D. Wood, of Grand Rapids, Mich. He also played at the wedding of the bride's parents 7 years ago and at the weding of her grandparents 54 years ago.

Sweetness and Light

Sweetness is Ethel Merman, singing star, and the light is from the lantern that Ethel is swinging in Grand Central Station. That's all for sweetness and light. Sour were the thoughts and dark the anger of trainmen who mistook her lantern gag as a signal to sidetrack the train. Frantic efforts of brakemen kept the train from California in the station long enough for passengers to alight.

Hurley Battles South's Plea to Cut R. R. Rates

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 22 (AP) — Massachusetts' Governor Charles F. Hurley told the Interstate Commerce Commission today that proposed revision of northbound freight rates on southern goods would be "an unwise national development."

Governor Hurley expressed his view in a statement sent here to be read into the record at the I. C. C.'s freight rate hearing.

The statement said:

"It strikes me as an unwise national development to have any change made in the existing rate structure which would have the effect of further tearing down the industrial localities with . . . high standards, in order to build up other localities where lower standards have been tenaciously retained."

In referring to existing "high standards," Hurley said he meant Massachusetts' enactment of workmen's compensation, factory inspection and women's and children's hour-regulatory legislation.

The Governor said Massachusetts had suffered from migration of its industries to the South. He commented:

"The recent growth of the South at the expense of New England is such an obvious economic phenomenon that the primary basis for the southern petition, namely, their need for industrial advancement, is refuted by the remarkable progress of late years made by the South."

Children Storm Quincy Mayor

More than 100 children stormed Quincy City Hall today protesting against Mayor Thomas Burgin's order to close the playground at the Daniel Webster School, Quincy Point.

Carrying placards the children stood outside the City Hall and chanted:

"Give us back our playground!"

Mayor Burgin closed the playground on Tuesday when he received complaints from school officials that some of the children were breaking windows in the school.

CRUSHED—When woman student driver, Mrs. Bertha Goings of Roxbury, lost control of this car in Bowdoin street, Dorchester, seven-year-old Mary Hopkins was crushed (arrow) against the stone wall today. Student Driver Crushes Child

Crushed against a stone wall when a student driver lost control of the car, seven-year-old Mary Hopkins, of Bullard street, Dorchester, was critically injured today.

The car, driven by Mrs. Bertha Goings, of Sonoma street, Roxbury, according to police, swerved to avoid another car, mounted the sidewalk in Bowdoin street, Dorchester, and pinned the child against the wall.

At St. Margaret's Hospital, Dorchester, physicians said she had a fractured skull and possible internal injuries.

Mrs. Goings was being instructed in driving by Louis Spalos, of Glenway street, Roxbury, according to the police report.

CAMP WORKER KILLED

FERRISBURG, Vt., July 22 (AP) —Roy T. Blacklock, 44, of East Hartford, was killed today when his automobile was struck by a Rutland railroad passenger train.

Babs' Cousin Fined, 'Broke'

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)— Mrs. Julia Donahue Higgins, 5-and-10-cent store heiress and cousin of Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz Reventlow, said today she was "really and truly" broke and could not pay a $50 fine for speeding.

Her plea failed to move Judge Richard C. Cotter, who issued a warrant for her arrest.

Mrs. Higgins was ticketed several weeks ago for speeding near Huntington, L. I.

Judge Cotter agreed to postpone sentence after she had pleaded guilty, but he warned her to come back into court with at least $50.

Today Judge Cotter had a letter from Mrs. Higgins "absolutely guaranteeing" him that she would pay her fine by August 1.

"There is no earthly way I can pay it before then," her letter said, "and I hope you will save me the embarrassment of going to jail. I do hope you will find this satisfactory."

Judge Cotter said he found it "not at all" satisfactory.

"No one should trifle with the courts," he commented; "the rich especially should not try to take advantage of their position."

He said 30 days in jail was the customary sentence for her offense.

LORETTA PETERS

Because she wanted her 17-year-old sister to have candles on her birthday cake, Clara May Peters, 12, of 401 Neponset avenue, Dorchester, lay close to death today at City Hospital.

Clara May Peters

Clara May went to Fields Corner last night to buy the candles for sister Loretta, and with her went a next-door neighbor, William Spooner, also 12.

They spent more than they intended and then found they did not have enough for carfare home.

The boy and girl hopped a ride on a trolley car, police said, but at Minot street and Neponset avenue the girl fell off, suffering a fractured collar bone and fractured skull. A motorist took her to City Hospital.

Foley to Seek Third Term As Prosecutor

District Attorney William J. Foley today filed over 1000 nomination papers, with an estimated 75,000 signatures on them, at the office of the Boston Municipal Election Commission, indicating he intended to seek a third term as district attorney of Suffolk County.

Foley will seek the Democratic nomination in the coming primary. In the past that nomination has always been equivalent to election.

He said in filing:

"I wish to thank the more than eighty thousand persons who signed my papers for renomination.

"My record as district attorney discloses that I discriminate between the wicked and the weak, punish the vicious but salvage the unfortunate.

"I shall continue the policy of intelligent co-operation between the district attorney's office and the law enforcement agencies of the federal, state and city governments."

Damage Soars, More Rain Due

second, but I tell you I SAW it. I know I did! It couldn't have been anything else!" one typical victim was babbling as he was led away.

Saner observers, however, shook their heads. They, too, they admitted, had seen something that looked like the sun—maybe for maybe half a second or so a couple of times during the day.

But the weather man continued to predict another two days of rain.

ST. SWITHINS RIGHT

Some folk gloomily reminded those that would listen to them of the old legend of St. Swithins' Day—"if it rains on St. Swithins' Day, 'twill rain every day for 40 days thereafter."

St. Swithins' Day this year was July 15, they pointed out—and it rained.

Today's rain reached near-cloudburst proportions shortly after midnight and intermittently thereafter.

The rainfall for the 24 hours ended at 8:30 a. m. today totalled 3.08 inches.

Cheer up, though! that's not "a record."

The record rainfall for a 24-hour period in Boston is 6.04 inches.

The total for the past four 24-hour periods of virtually constant rain at 8:30 a. m. today was 5.35 inches.

Humidity of the rain-saturated air at 10 a. m. was 98 per cent. Normal is 71 per cent.

Only place in New England where it was reported not raining was Nantucket. By some freak of nature the skies there were clear.

Today's torrent flooded again the already swollen streets and gullies in Greater Boston. Lightning that accompanied it struck the house of Charles Freeman on Revere boulevard, Revere. No one in the house was injured, but damage was set at $500.

WASHOUT IN BRAINTREE

A partial washout blocked traffic this afternoon on Route 37 at Five Corners, Braintree. The shoulder of the road was washed away.

Five hundred regular city employes already are at work doing what they can. A sidewalk and road survey likewise is under way, and two streets already have been closed as unsafe for traffic. These are Vernon street, from Washington to Shawmut, and Hammond street, from Shawmut to Tremont, both in Roxbury.

Hurley, G. O. P. Solons Still Deadlocked

The Hurley-Republican deadlock in the House was unbroken today after the G.O.P. faction held fast to its demand for local work-relief and rejected the governor's $10,000,000 bond issue.

Instead of the governor's proposal the House, Republican controlled, adopted a plan whereby the $5,500,000 balance in the gasoline tax fund, sought for the general treasury by Hurley, is earmarked for cities and towns for road work "during the current year or thereafter."

This the Republicans did in the face of a threat by organized labor to stage "protest demonstrations." The substitute plan will come before he Senate for action Monday.

The House vote came after the Committee for Industrial Organization gave its support to the bond issue program drafted by John F. Gatelee, head of the state unit of t e American Federation of Labor.

Democrats, in a heated three-hour debate, declared that failure to enact the Governor's bond issue would result in "labor and unemployed storming the State House."

The Republicans countered with charges that the Governor sought a political "slush fund" by increasing state public works appropriations.

Gatelee, who first suggested the "march of labor," was in Washington today.

Greets Sister After 50 Years

NORTH EASTON, July 22—The half-century separation of a brother and sister was bridged today with the arrival from California of Nathan Isnor at the home of Mrs. George Humphrey, Washington street, this town.

Both were born in Glen Margaret, N. S., members of a family of nine, five of whom are now living.

Eanor left his home for California when he was 21 years old and his trip to North Easton for the reunion with his sister is the first time he has crossed the continent since.

New Baby Dead, Widow, 22, is Held

HAVERHILL, N. H., July 22—Allegedly confessing that she had thrown the body of her new-born baby into the Connecticut river, Mrs. Elsie Cosgrove, 22-year-old Hanover widow, is being held in the county jail here on a statutory charge in default of $3000 bail.

According to Chief Dennis Halliday of the Hanover police, the young widow, mother of a 15-months-old child, admitted disposing of the body of the baby in the river a week ago. It was found Sunday.

British Kidnap Plotter Jailed

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., July 22 (AP)—John Bruce Thornton was sentenced today to seven years of penal servitude for a fantastic plot to kidnap Viscount Nuffield, Britain's "Henry Ford," and hold him at sea for ransom of $500,000. The jury deliberated two hours.

Thornton denied any intention to kidnap the millionaire automobile manufacturer.

Weston College Records Quake

WESTON, July 22 (AP)—The Weston College seismograph station reported its instrument today recorded a "strong" earthquake at 4:55 a. m., approximately 2670 miles southwest of Boston, which would place it "around Panama or northwestern South America."

Easy Suicide Verdict for Coroner

DENVER, July 22 (AP)—Deputy Coroner Gus Economy reported today an autopsy disclosed the stomach of a man found dead in a rooming house contained poison, four screws, five nails, three tacks, 12 small pieces of glass and a corner of a razor blade.

Economy said the death was suicide.

Weeps as Police Hunt Her Suitor

A heartbroken, 27-year-old girl from Paterson, N. J., her dreams of a honeymoon in California shattered, wept today while police sought Russell Pisano, 28, who left her waiting at the bus station.

She is Miss Theresa DiPaolo, 27, whose brother, Thomas, lives on Beach street, Revere.

Gene with Pisano, she told police, is her engagement ring and $250 which she gave him for "safekeeping."

She met Pisano, she said, on her vacation here four years ago. He told her his home was in Utah. This year, she consented to marry him.

They planned to be married en route west, in order not to have to wait after the license was issued, Miss DiPaolo explained. They met at the bus station here, checked their baggage, and Pisano accompanied Miss DiPaolo's brother to a motion picture show while Miss DiPaolo did some last minute shopping.

During the show, Miss DiPaolo said, Pisano excused himself to go to the washroom. He did not return, DiPaolo said, and when DiPaolo and his sister went to the bus station they found Pisano had checked out with his baggage.

Probers Order TVA Opinions Impounded

KNOXVILLE, July 22 (AP)—Congressional investigators today impounded all legal opinions by TVA counsel with reference to changes in minutes of the board of directors of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The action was taken on motion of Rep. Jenkins (R.) of Ohio, the committee impounding the legal opinions along with the actual minutes.

HOFFMAN TESTIFIES

Charles Hoffman, assistant to the board, testified "all three directors" of the TVA—former Chairman Arthur E. Morgan, and Directors David E. Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan—had ordered changes in the minutes.

Hoffman said yesterday changes were made "mostly by Mr. Lilienthal."

QUIZZED BY BIDDLE

Under questioning by Frances Biddle, committee counsel, Hoffman said the first change in the minutes was made November 2, 1933, and others at intervals since.

Hoffman, who previously said he had orders not to "contact" Dr. Morgan, told of a conference last Sunday with the ousted chairman and his attorney, E. H. Cassels of Chicago.

Cassels told him, he said, that "I was to give Biddle a report on our confidential interview."

29-Ounce Baby Girl Lives

perature could be regulated more minutely.

Doctors at the hospital stood by, watching the child's condition, before attempting to administer first nourishment.

They said they might begin by giving her an intravenous injection of glucose.

Later, they would feed her mother's milk in two or three ounce quantities, using a medicine dropper, they said.

An official hospital bulletin reported the baby's chances as "apparently good."

Dr. Bell said:

"I answered an emergency call from the Gadman home.

"When I got there the child had been born. I estimated that the birth had occurred about 15 minutes previously.

"Only the father and a woman neighbor were there to aid the mother, and they didn't know what to do. They were badly frightened.

"When I first saw the baby I thought we were going to lose it.

HEART BEAT VERY FAINT

"Its breathing was almost imperceptible and the heartbeat very faint.

"I inflated the lungs with my own breath, then I used pressure to induce artificial respiration.

"In cases like that you have to keep the baby's temperature up.

"So I rigged a basket with hot water bottles and put the infant in, wrapped in cotton.

"The baby seemed to be doing well when we got it to the hospital.

"Of course, it's always an uphill fight for premature infants as small as this one. Still, I think the Gadman child has a good chance to survive.

"I wouldn't say the baby was small enough to set any record. But it's pretty small. There's no doubt about that."

The baby's father said:

"This all came as a complete surprise to us.

"My wife hadn't even been sure she was going to have a baby.

"It was 1 o'clock this morning when she first realized her condition.

"I called our neighbor, Mrs. Francis J. Holline, down from the apartment above ours.

"We put in an emergency telephone call for a doctor, but the baby was born before he got here.

"This was my wife's third child. Our oldest is Frank, Jr., three. His brother Bobby is 14 months."

School Days End At 45 In Turkey

ELEANOR BARNUM

You're of "school age" in modern Turkey until you're 45.

And only way you can quit your classes younger is by proving yourself letter-perfect in the Turkish language.

Attractive young Miss Eleanor Barnum says so, and she ought to know, for Istanbul, Turkey, has been her home since babyhood.

Just now, she's attending Boston University summer school, taking courses which will help her when she goes back to Turkey, next year, to be a teacher.

Her dad, Harry E. Barnum, is professor of mathematics at the American College in Istanbul.

Eleanor's pupils will be children of members of the college faculty.

First question everybody here in Boston asks dark-haired, demure Miss Barnum is about Turkish harems.

"They don't have them any more," she explains patiently. "And the women don't wear veils. Mustapha Kemal has put an end to all that."

Miss Barnum had more to say today about Dictator Kemal Ataturk and his rigorous modernization of his home land.

"The Turkish people have become very nationalistic," she said. "Their new slogan is 'Turkey for the Turks,' and they really make it work.

"Everyone in Turkey has to go to school until reaching the age of 45 or until able to prove ability to speak Turkish flawlessly."

Teddy Bear Creator Dead

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—Morris Michtom, 68, Russian immigrant doll maker whose teddy bear was the childhood joy of millions of Americans, is dead today at his Brooklyn home after a long illness.

A pioneer in the American doll industry, Michtom was chairman of the board of the Ideal Novelty and Toy Co., which he founded in 1903, 14 years after he came to New York from Russia, a penniless immigrant.

When he started his business the majority of American children's dolls came from abroad, chiefly Germany. The teddy bear, his first creation, became an immediate success.

Kills Husband, Ends Own Life

STANFORD, Ky., July 22 (AP)—A coroner's jury here returned a verdict that a 65-year-old woman murdered her husband of less than half her age and took her own life.

Coroner W. A. Carson said today the woman, Mrs. Ella Dishon Wood, fired three revolver shots which hit her husband, Irvine, 29, and two shots into her own chest without leaving her bed at their home eight miles south of here early yesterday.

Clash Marks Kitty's Trial

jointly against her and the dapper former orchestra leader at the Brown Derby by her husband, Tony Brando, owner of the night club.

McHale, filling engagements in Ohio, had been expected in court but failed to appear, although counsel for Mrs. Brando declared the band leader was available if wanted.

ROW OVER LETTER INCIDENT

Attorney Herbert F. Callahan, counsel for Brando, was questioning Mrs. Brando sharply today on the propriety of showing McHale and her cousin, Arthur Tobin, Brown Derby bartender, a Florida letter from her husband, which was misspelled in places.

Counsel for the wife, J. Paul Keefe, interrupted the proceedings and snapped:

"With such language coming from you, Mr. Callahan, one should hang another medal on you."

"I'll hang a medal on you that will make you go out that window," Callahan shot back.

"That'll be the day," retorted Keefe. "You may be able to bulldose witnesses but you're not able to bulldose me. They can put on boxing gloves in other parts of the city outside the South End. That'll be the day—when you put them on."

WORD TILT ENDED

"I know cattle when I see them," barked Callahan.

"Yes, and I know racketeers and their counsel when I see them," Keefe quickly flung back.

It was then that Judge Frost whacked down his gavel and halted the short war.

Attorney Callahan then turned his attention back to Mrs. Brando on the witness stand.

"Were you at the Coronado Hotel (in Worcester) on May 1 with McHale?" he asked.

"No," she replied.

Q—Were you registered at the Coronado Hotel with McHale? A—No.

DROVE BRANDO TO TRAIN

Mrs. Brando testified that she got up out of a sick bed to drive her husband from their home in Shaw road, Brookline, to the railroad station when he left for Florida last December.

Q—You were anxious to get your husband out of town, weren't you? A—A woman can never get a man out of town.

Q—Do you recall McHale and your girl friend and yourself—all three — in one bed at your home? A—No.

Callahan here offered a motion that Atty. Keefe be directed to produce McHale as a witness, but the motion was denied.

Q—Do you recall a third visit of McHale? A—There was no third visit. He only came to my home twice.

Q—Did you tell your husband of McHale's visits? A—I think we talked about them some time afterward.

This concluded Kitty Brando's testimony after more than four hours on the stand.

When she was excused, the trial was shifted over to the main courtroom from the small room in which it had been conducted. This was to provide more seats for spectators who were beginning to crowd the corridors.

DENIES KNOWING WOODS

When she first resumed the stand today under cross-examination, wearing a light straw hat with veil and a flower-print dress, Kitty denied that she knew an Aaron Woods, or ever heard of him.

Q—Don't you know he is a booker of bands? A—No.

Q—Do you know Myer Marks? A—Yes.

Q—You said that you paid Dr. Greeley only $2 or $3 for your visits? A—Yes.

(Callahan referred to testimony yesterday concerning alleged visits to the doctor with McHale.)

Q—Isn't it a fact that a lawyer collected $25 from McHale for those visits? A—I don't know.

Q—You said yesterday that it was definitely a lie that you were caught coming out of the Westminster and going to Hunt's for breakfast with McHale? A—Yes, I did say that.

Q—Do you know a Mr. Sutton? A—Yes.

DENIALS ON STAND

Q—Didn't you tell Mr. Sutton that that was so? A—No.

Q—You say you were never in a room with McHale alone? A—Yes, I never was in a room with McHale alone.

Q—Never in his company alone? A—No.

Q—Did you ever hear of a place called the Winking Lantern? A—Never heard of it.

Q—Did you ever hear of the Splendid Cafeteria in Watertown? A—No.

Mrs. Brando then testified that she never had been out to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hall in Jamaica Plain alone with McHale; that there was always a crowd present.

She denied also that McHale ever had gone out there in her car.

Mrs. Virginia Hall, formerly of the Jamaicaway, Jamaica Plain, but now estranged from John Hall and living in Milton, took the stand and corroborated much of Mrs. Brando's testimony.

This included denials that Kitty Brando and McHale had been to the Hall home together except on parties with others and a denial of Hall's testimony of a week ago that the two had stayed overnight at the house.

S..YS TOBIN NERVOUS

Mrs. Hall testified that she was one of those who accompanied Mrs. Brando to Orleans to see Arthur Tobin and he appeared badly frightened, "and as if he were going to cry any minute."

"Tobin told me," said the witness, "that he had to go to court and testify. He said, 'I'm scared stiff.' He told me that Tony and some of his crew had threatened him and that he would be taken for a ride."

The witness denied that on one occasion McHale left her home by the back door.

Q—Did your husband ever say to you, "Get him out of here and don't let those people in again; they will cause us a lot of trouble and put us in the middle"? A—I never heard my husband say that.

TOBIN RECALLED

Tobin was called to the stand in rebuttal after the defense rested and said he and McHale and visited the Brando home three times while Brando was in Florida. Mrs. Brando had testified there were only two visits of the pair together.

Called also in rebuttal was Paul P. Sutton of Park Vale road, Allston, manager of the Brown Derby, who also was questioned by Attorney Callahan.

Q—Did you ever have any conversation with Mrs. Brando about trouble? A—Yes, Mrs. Brando called me on the telephone and told me she wanted to see me. She told me she thought she had been caught coming out of the Westminster but that she had denied it to her husband.

Q—Can you recognize McHale's signature? A—Yes.

PERMISSION DENIED

Callahan then sought permission to reopen the prosecution's case, declaring he wished a clerk of the Coronada Hotel in Worcester to identify a signature on the hotel records. Judge Frost refused permission, stating Callahan had had ample time to introduce this evidence if he had it.

Dr. Angela Greely was next recalled and testified that Mrs. Brando did not pay her for alleged treatments. She received a check from McHale, the doctor said.

Under cross-examination by Mrs. Brando's counsel, Dr. Greely said that she had no record of the history of Mrs. Brando's case and that she had not reported it to the state department of health.

This ended testimony and a recess was called pending the start of final arguments.

SERVES WARRANT

During the recess, Joseph W. Nardoni of Park drive, Fenway, owner of the San Souci night club and named by Mrs. Brando as one of the men Tobin said had been with Tony Brando when Tobin was threatened at Orleans, was seated on a bench in the courthouse corridor.

Constable Edward H. Fahey of Brookline approached Nardoni and served him with an arrest warrant for non-payment of personal taxes for 1937 and 1938, totaling $45.

When the constable threatened to take him to jail Nardoni pulled out a $100 bill and paid the taxes.

Sally Headed For Movies as Debut Clicks

little coaching, she could compete with Alice Faye," he said, with enthusiasm. "I want her to take a screen test in New York. She's distinct and has loads of personality."

Sally listened, and pondered. She wasn't sure today she wants a movie career yet. She was more interested in what her friends thought of her acts last night.

Nor were all the customers at Sally's debut close friends and her severest critics. There was a generous sprinkling of sceptics, frankly expecting an amateur show. Or at best, a half-hearted "try-out" by an indulgent hotel management.

"SHOWS" BOSTON

That's what Sally feared, she says now. That's why she was determined to "show Boston." And she did.

For if Sally was scared stiff for one moment her dancing feet never faltered. If her low soft voice skipped a single note her audience never missed it.

[illegible]

"It's a wonderful crowd for such a rainy night, isn't it?" she asked wistfully. "Do you think I'll be all right? How do I look?"

She was reassured by a chorus.

SALLY THRILLED

"I never knew it would be like this," she added, "but it's really my golden opportunity and I mean to make good. All those people . . . all this support and so much depends on it!" she sighed.

A fanfare greeted her appearance on the [illegible] Maurice, famed dancer of the [illegible]

Duce's "Sneak" Act

ROME, July 22 (INS)—Premier Mussolini "sneaked" into the outdoor performance of the opera Lohengrin at the ancient Caracalla Baths, purchasing a two lire (ten cent) ticket and proceeding unrecognized in the darkness to one of the uppermost seats in the amphi theatre.

The moment the lights went up, however, he was instantly recognized and the audience of 20,000 bellowed a lusty cheer.

Why Do Men Marry?

Boston Girls Say 'Love'

CATHERINE DOYLE MARILYN RAFTERY JOAN RABIDEAU

Men, "babies that they are," marry for love, for protection—or for real home cooking!

Boston girls seemed agreed on that today.

Three of them [illegible] after [illegible] of Playwright Clifford Odets' newest comment: [illegible]

Clifford Odets

[illegible] Actress [illegible] Rainer [illegible] European [illegible] he asserted [illegible] for convenience.

"Ridiculous," scoffed Miss Joan Rabideau of St. Stephen street, Back Bay.

"Men are babies. They generally marry because they think they are in love.

"Women are the ones who sometimes marry for convenience. They're apt to have an eye out for money or a better environment when they pick a husband.

"But love gets us women, too. We'll fall for a fellow without a nickel or a job if his 'line' is good enough."

Another point was [illegible] by Miss Catherine Doyle of [illegible] street, Charlestown. She said:

"A lot of men marry for protection. They get tired of having women chase them. So they propose to the one they think will take best care of them."

[illegible] Miss [illegible] Raftery [illegible]:

"Convenience is the last thing a man considers when he asks a girl to marry him.

"He just goes along, glad to be a bachelor, until some day he meets the right girl and 'boom!' He's sunk, just like that!

"There are exceptions, of course. Some men marry because they get sick of restaurant cooking.

"Nine times out of ten, though, it's love that heads 'em for the wedding ring counter."

No Moth Balls For Jalopy

He Speaks

And World Listens to Newest Hero

How he dreamed, worked, saved and fought to learn aviation and win fame as a transatlantic flier is told here with by Douglas Corrigan. This is the second of a series of chapters relating fully for the first time Corrigan's own story of his life and his unique, unheralded achievement.

By DOUGLAS CORRIGAN
(As Told to Thomas C. Watson)

DUBLIN, July 22—Since 1926 I have always had a yearning for flying. It started when I was 17. I then worked for a builder in Los Angeles. They were doing constructional work in a Los Angeles flying field.

INTERVIEW. Flown from Ireland aboard the British Pick-a-Back plane, this photo shows Nonstop Corrigan facing a barrage of questions from Irish newsmen quotations for the Press of the World.

DUBLIN, July 22 (AP)—Douglas G. Corrigan served notice on girl admirers today that he is a flyer, not a lover.

"I can't get over the number of girls who seem to think because I flew the Atlantic I would make a perfect husband," said Douglas.

"I am not having any feminine entanglements yet in my young life," he added, as his fan mail grew into a huge stack. He is 31.

By RALPH B. JORDAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, July 22 (INS)—Even though it carried him several thousand miles in the "wrong direction," across the Atlantic to Ireland "by mistake," when he thought he was headed for California, Douglas Corrigan's plane is no comedy affair, he would have you know.

"Douglas has as much respect for that plane as if it were made of solid platinum, diamond studded," his Baptist minister uncle, the Rev. S. Fraser Langford, says.

"Although nearly everything in the world is a joke to him, that is a very serious affair. He has worked it over from stem to stern, knows intimately every joint and rivet in it.

"He might concede it isn't the finest plane in the world, but he'd never speak a word to belittle it."

Shirley Temple Liked In 'Miss Broadway'

By PEGGY DOYLE

Shirley Temple, wearing her own chestnut-toned hair in a cluster of curls at each side of her part, little moved and what the best-dressed nine-year old is wearing this season, is completely competent in the title role of "Little Miss Broadway," her current starring picture on the Metropolitan screen.

"Mr. Moto Takes a Chance" with Peter Lorre, Rochelle Hudson and Robert Kent is the second feature.

Nice George Murphy, who, like that other expert dancer, Eleanor Powell, [illegible] star, has succeeded Bill Robinson as Shirley's dancing partner. He is [illegible] and more than adequate in his present assignment of a rich young man who [illegible] Shirley's adopted parents.

Edna Mae Oliver [illegible] Jimmy Durante as the [illegible] patron of the [illegible] hotel operated by little Miss Broadway's foster parents, is no [illegible] to Durante devotees.

Edward Ellis and Phyllis Brooks [illegible] rescued Shirley from an orphanage.

The story of "Little Miss Broadway," written by Harry Tugend and Jack Yellen, is an excellent vehicle for the [illegible] star, whose developing talents point to continued screen success. The Temple tot's singing and dancing, to say nothing of her amazing showmanship, make her a valuable asset to any producer, particularly when, as Darryl F. Zanuck has done in this case, he gives her a story [illegible] with her talents.

The plot is all about a small girl who lives in a [illegible] hotel with her foster family. "Cyrano" Durante's jazz band gets too noisy and Edna Mae Oliver, a wealthy neighbor and part owner of the hotel, threatens to close it. Her nephew, George Murphy, who has suddenly become a strong partisan of the youngster, is on her side when the case finally reaches the courts.

Claude Gillingwater, Sr., the austere presiding judge, at Shirley's suggestion, permits the hotel's actor-occupants to show cause why it should not be closed by staging a show.

Not only the judge, but the vinegary Miss Oliver become sold on the performance and are the most enthusiastic in the courtroom when a $5000-a-week Broadway offer is made for it.

'Tough Guy' Gang Life Film

Keith Memorial's screen bill this week is a study in contrasts, with the incorrigible "Dead End" kids in "Little Tough Guy" and a 40 minute Walt Disney Revue, including the delightful "Wynken, Blynken and Nod" color cartoon, providing the black and white accents, respectively.

Billy Halop is the "Little Tough Guy" and you never doubt it as the picture unreels. He is the screen's most convincing "bad boy." In this particular instance Script-writers Brenda Weisberg and Gilson Brown have given him excellent reason to be one. His father, charged with murder, is convicted and sent to prison unjustly, the boy believes. The youth's persistent efforts to right things are unavailing.

"Little Tough Guy," a [illegible] of "Crime School" and other [illegible] for rowdies films, is saved from mediocrity by the performances of young Halop, Marjorie Main as his mother, and the other "Dead End" kids.

'Blockade' Injured By Propaganda

Had Walter Wanger's "Blockade" sidestepped propaganda, it might have been a dramatically powerful screen transcript of the Spanish Civil War.

Currently unreeling on Loew's State and Orpheum screens, the Wanger drama, originally conceived by John Howard Lawson, is the story of a man's love for his land. It gets sidetracked and becomes a factional argument.

At best "Blockade," with its backneyed spy plot and its uninspired love story, falls short of being a great film.

First we are given opening shots of pastoral Spain as it looked before civil war destroyed it. Leo Carrillo, as a wandering [illegible], is seen singing.

Henry Fonda, a young [illegible] farm boy, is observed piping to his flock when he is not delivering an apostrophe to the soil. His soliloquy is interrupted by a beautiful girl in a high powered car with tire trouble. Towing her car back to the village, Fonda and the girl, Madeleine Carroll, become expansive. They part, he to shortly become a lieutenant on special counter-espionage duty and she to accept the shameful job of spy.

"Blockade" has definite dramatic value but, by larding it with insidious propaganda, this potentially promising production becomes a film [illegible] instead of a glorious film achievement.

Dr. Freud Sought As Film Advisor

HOLLYWOOD, July 22. Maybe it's a brain storm, but in pictures the most fantastic things come to pas and become hot news.

So when Hal Wallis told me that he had telephoned to the Warner office in London to see if Dr. Sigmund Freud, world famous psychoanalyst would come here and act as technical advisor on "Dark Victory," I was really interested.

The death of Jack Dunn has completely upset Eddie Small's movie plans. He had banked on the handsome lad to make "The Duke of West Point" a huge success because of Jack's ability as a fancy skater. Rather than hold up the deal until he finds an actor for the part, he is now negotiating with Paramount for Ray Milland to star in the Dunn role, and he is considering Anthony Rivers for his Valentino picture.

Speaking of Small, he is now in New York conferring with Howard Hughes on the deal we mentioned while Hughes was winging his way around the world—a movie with Howard's sky adventures as the basis.

A few months ago, Mr. Kane won nationwide prominence by his plan to parade drunkards in a lion's cage. Fortunately, and much to his credit, the scheme was abandoned.

Now, however, he can boast of a real accomplishment. He has succeeded in reducing his city's tax rate $7.30, bringing it down to $39.60.

It is well to recall that when he was seeking office, Mr. Kane promised to bring relief to home and property owners. His word was good. He kept it—with deeds.

THE MERCURY, British seaplane, spanning the North Atlantic from Foynes, Ireland, to Montreal in twenty hours and twenty minutes, gives us new evidence of the day when everybody will make long-distance journeys in the air.

The marvelous flight, accomplished without accident across 2715 miles of turbulent sea, was a worthy successor to the trans-atlantic crossings of Howard Hughes and Douglas P. Corrigan.

Perhaps the most unique [illegible] of the rapid, continent-to-continent trip was the use of a [illegible] plane to lift the [illegible] laden Mercury into the air. The [illegible] of a take-off crash was prevented.

The announcement that the British plan fifteen test flights to America this summer indicates that "over there" the possibility of establishing a REGULAR transportation service by air to this country is realized and appreciated.

For Boston the Mercury's success has an especial interest. We are the nearest American city to Europe. When scheduled trans-atlantic flying begins, we should be the North American terminal.

The Political Parade

BY GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, July 22.

THE THIRD TERM issue will be brought squarely to the front at the Capitol as soon as Congress next convenes.

It will await the formal opening in January, unless an extra session should be called. In that event it will "break" earlier.

So far as the third term is concerned, Mr. Roosevelt is in the position of a President just entering the second half of his first term.

THIS is because Mr. Roosevelt's popularity with the people so far transcends that of any of his predecessors since Lincoln—not even excepting U. S. Grant, the only President to come within hailing distance of a third term nomination at the hands of his regular party—that the question of a third election to the Presidency [illegible] within the bounds of practical politics.

For this reason, an [illegible] by the President that he would not be under any circumstances a candidate to succeed himself would throw the [illegible] Congress into a state of chaos.

Any President who should [illegible] to become known in the [illegible] of his first term that he would not seek to succeed him[illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] western trip has [illegible] some old-line Democrats the [illegible] that the third term is a [illegible] possibility.

The President's popularity is undiminished in the States he has traversed by every test that can be applied.

Confidential reports which Republican stage managers have received lead this writer to conclude that a third term candidacy in 1940 would be more formidable than the practical politicians of both parties had assumed as recently as six months ago.

This is confirmed by the writer's personal impressions gained at first hand on a recent tour of the Southeastern States. The President, if conditions remain as at present, or if they improve economically, undoubtedly could carry the "Solid South" two years hence against any Republican candidate.

Science Sheds New Light on Cancer

One of the things in life most of us choose to ignore is supposedly incurable disease, particularly cancer.

Treatment for the dread ailment is always "front page news," and the scientist who discovers PERMANENT CURE will be immortalized by mankind.

At the recent spectroscopy conference at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Dr. T. R. Hogness of the University of Chicago discussed the ENZYME, a mysterious "medicine" of nature which comes to the aid of body cells (under normal circumstances) when they need protection from certain irritants.

Dr. Hogness, for this department, analyzes the cancer situation TODAY and explains what he believes is the PROBABILITY of permanent cure TOMORROW.

By WILLIAM MICHELFELDER

Boston Evening American Staff Writer

Every cell in your body breathes, reproduces, eats and dabbles in recreation when it has a holiday in oxygen exposure.

Dr. T. R. Hogness of the University of Chicago believes that the road to man's conquest of cancer probably lies through BETTER UNDERSTANDING of how the cells of the human body breathe.

He told us:

"The abnormal growth that [illegible] associated with [illegible] respiration [illegible]

"The basic problem of how [illegible] a mystery, although it has been [illegible] the manner in which the cell breathes [illegible] oxygen [illegible] body inhales, is AN IMPORTANT STEP IN THE [illegible] [illegible] sugar in your diet?"

Sugar [illegible] hydrogen [illegible] protection of [illegible] system.

"TOO MUCH SUGAR IN YOUR DIET IS AN IRRITANT TO HUMAN CELLS PROBABLY CAUSES AS MUCH TROUBLE AS DIABETES.

"Cancer is very closely allied to normal growth. The NORMAL cell divides from one to two, two to four, four to eight, eight to sixteen and so on.

"THE CANCER CELL GROWS IN THE SAME WAY AS DOES THE NORMAL CELL. IT STARTS AS ONE CELL WHICH DIVIDES INTO TWO, FOUR and SO ON.

"IT DIFFERS FROM THE NORMAL CELL IN THAT IT CONTINUES TO GROW WITHOUT RESTRAINT.

"What enables cancerous cells to grow without restraint is that there is a SUBSTANCE MISSING TO PROTECT THE NORMAL CELL.

[illegible] with cancer.

"Good living, proper physical and emotional environment are PROTECTIVES AGAINST THE DISEASE.

"What causes cancer?

"The FUNDAMENTAL CAUSE OF CANCER IS IRRITATION. Medical science admits that what [illegible] the irritation is not clear.

"TAKE THE INTERESTING QUESTION OF PERSONS WHO CUT THEMSELVES REPEATEDLY.

"In that situation, for example, the increased growth of cells to repair the cut is repeatedly set in motion and after a sufficient period of time has elapsed, with this process always going on, the ability to stop growing WHEN THE CUT IS REPAIRED IS LOST and the ensuing production [illegible] CANCER.

"[illegible] sometimes the result of [illegible], in major instances."

Dr. Hogness referred to the tongue for another example.

He [illegible] a very average person who has a jagged tooth rubbing against the tongue. Each time you or I experience the twitch of our tongue against the tooth nature immediately sets into motion the REPRODUCTION [illegible]

[illegible]

Dr. Hogness [illegible]

"[illegible] CELLS [illegible] THE HABIT OF [illegible] THEY LOSE THE POWER TO STOP WHEN THE [illegible] IS HEALED AND [illegible] GROWTH IS THE RESULT.

[illegible] physicians [illegible] with cancer.

"IT IS INTERESTING TO NOTE THAT MANY OF MY PATIENTS KNOW THEY HAD CHRONIC IRRITATION IN PERIODS RANGING FROM SIX WEEKS.

"ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT PROGRAMS YOU SHOULD HAVE IN MASSACHUSETTS IS STATISTICAL RESEARCH.

[illegible]

[illegible] IRRITATION [illegible] SKIN IS ALL THAT SCIENCE KNOWS AND WHEN YOU FEEL A PART OF YOUR BODY HAS GIVEN YOU TOO MUCH OF IRRITATION, SEE A PHYSICIAN AT ONCE."

The [illegible] by Dr. Hogness [illegible] has [illegible] time and study in an attempt to solve the real cause and find a [illegible] for this disease which has taken such a frightful toll of human lives. Backed by the great resources of the University of Chicago, he has pushed the study of the disease to the limit and is still carrying on his quest for a more complete understanding of the ailment.

Consequently, his admonition to avoid irritating wounds is of pertinent importance to everyone and his suggestion that a physician be consulted when any part of one's body gives evidence of undue irritation, should be remembered by all.

(Another TODAY and TOMORROW feature will appear in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.)

Girl About Town by Ann Marsters

WE WOULDN'T attempt to explain why most women's pocket books reveal such a motley array of articles. But perhaps it's the same principle that makes small boys hoard a strange variety of junk from hoptoads to pebbles in their pockets.

Ann Marsters

The Brighter Side by Damon Runyon

"NOR SHALL any lottery or the sale of lottery tickets, pool-selling, bookmaking or any other kind of gambling hereafter be authorized or allowed within this State, and the Legislature shall pass appropriate laws to prevent offenses against any of the provisions of this section."

Now that is the clause in the organic law of the Empire State of New York which the constitutional convention refused to remove recently so that the power to frame gambling laws would be vested in the Legislature, and maybe you wonder how that leaves the situation with reference to gambling.

Damon Runyon

Well, it leaves gambling still a violation of the law, but of course there is some gambling in New York State, notably on the horse races, and nobody is going to do anything about it, and that is undoubtedly great hypocrisy.

The open bookmaking that goes on at the race tracks in New York and which many want supplanted by the pari-mutuels is the result of legislation in 1934 that made the penalties for violations of the State law strictly a civil matter.

Now admission to a New York race track is rather expensive and betting a bookmaker is quite a complicated business, and when you consider that the racing crowds in New York out of a population of 7,000,000 do not average more than 10,000 per day, if that, you can see that under present conditions the race track betting cannot involve anything like the enormous sums of the pari-mutuels tracks of California and elsewhere.

THE RACE TRACK bookmakers themselves are constantly creating pari-mutuels sentiment by their parsimonious and truculent tactics with the customers. It is a far cry from the bookmaking days in New York when Johnny Walters, or "Whitey" Beck or any one of 50 other bookmakers would take any bet of any amount.

They would just ask you blandly if you wanted any more and gave you the impression that they esteemed you as a customer. Nowadays, a bookmaker often makes you feel that you have grossly insulted him by offering him a bet on a horse. He will refuse to take any part of a bet though he may have the horse quoted on his board.

Sally Clark One Up On Sister Debs

By BETTY ALDEN

IN THE annual tournament for the most unique and memorable debut party, Sally Clark is now one up on the rest of the field of her erstwhile sister debs.

Instead of a conservative party at the Somerset or The Country Club, with a dignified line and the conventional row of Harvard stags, Sally, who is (need we tell you) the daughter of Mrs. F. Haven Clark, of Nahant, and sister of the former Anne Clark, the bride of John Roosevelt, decided to have a modern streamlined affair . . . which to our knowledge is the first night club debut in Boston society.

Sally made her "social bow" a [illegible] instead of formal, as a singer and dancer with Jack Marshard's orchestra on the Ritz Roof, by ending her act in a deep and [illegible] curtsy, with the skirt of her sheer pastel gown spread out around her. This curtsy also broke a precedent . . . for though it is the usual thing to call a girl's debut her social bow, no Boston deb has actually curtsied in three or four generations.

The nearest approach to a receiving line was the long ringside table where Mother Clark sat with a group of friends and received the congratulations of all those who were surprised and pleased at the lovely quality of Sally's [illegible] voice.

Mr. and Mrs. Parmely Herrick, Jr., the former Kitty Gardiner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Gardiner, Jr., of Brookline, happened to be here on a trip from New York just in time to be present at Sally's singing debut. With a [illegible] and white printed dress Mrs. Herrick wore a white straw sailor trimmed with white [illegible] . . . a whimsical contrast to her [illegible] coat trimmed with brass buttons.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Mott Hallowell, Jr., came in from Concord to dine and dance in a party with the latter's father, John McKey. Mr. McKey, who has an [illegible] for [illegible] swung many graceful partners around the floor . . . Among them Mrs. Albert C. [illegible] in a becoming gown of black net with [illegible] and her daughter Betty, whose violet chiffon was trimmed with fresh flowers. His daughter, Mary McKey Hallowell, wore an [illegible] white chiffon gown piped with [illegible] her sash and slippers.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Danforth, [illegible] and Mary Emery arrived in time to [illegible] around midnight and Mrs. Danforth [illegible] gown with a sash of rainbow [illegible].

Coral and amethyst was [illegible] for dining and dancing . . . [illegible] by a [illegible] marabou cape of a [illegible].

Bridesmaid

Alice Harmar Visits Magnolia Casino

With confetti clinging to her curly locks and her bridesmaid's bouquet still fragrant and lovely, Alice Harmar, of Eastern Point, was photographed during a party at the Casino in Magnolia following a recent Norh Shore wedding. At her side at the festive table was Harry B. Clark, Jr., of Bass Rocks, Gloucester. Miss Harmar is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Harmar whose winter residence is in Philadelphia, but who like to summer in New England.

Hasty Pudding Man to Wed

The Hasty Pudding Club [illegible] among the guests at the wedding Saturday afternoon of Phyllis Stevenson to George Whitney, Jr., two prominent members of younger [illegible] and Long Island society. The [illegible] is a graduate of [illegible] as well as Harvard, where he was [illegible] Hasty Pudding [illegible] a [illegible] at Harvard [illegible] School [illegible] a season or two [illegible] is a nephew of [illegible] Jamaica Plain [illegible] of [illegible] Boston [illegible] Jr. Mrs. Samuel [illegible] Jr., and Mrs. [illegible] His sisters [illegible] are frequent guests [illegible] and both will be [illegible] at the wedding.

The [illegible] will be [illegible] at the [illegible] Cove estate [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt [illegible] Long Island estate [illegible] of the wedding. Mrs. Vanderbilt's daughter, Rosemary Warburton, [illegible] will be a bridesmaid.

The [illegible] at [illegible] debut in [illegible] of Mrs. [illegible] gave a big party for [illegible] Long Island estate.

Watch Sally Clark Opening at Ritz

Dr. and Mrs. Edward L. [illegible]ham, of Brookline, entertained a party of six at Jack Marshard's opening last night at the Ritz.

Mary Groden and her escort watched the debut of Sally Clark as a song and dance star from their ringside table. Mary chose red and white print effectively trimmed with white lace. At a nearby table was Katherine Walsh, her crimson silk jersey cut on empire lines.

New York, Cape Rival Lures As Playgrounds

New York and Cape Cod resorts vie with each other in furnishing Boston folk with popular summer playgrounds.

Among those registered at the at the Waldorf-Astoria are Mrs. Rita Russell of Newton, Mary Quinn of Fitchburg, Catherine and Sarah Glory of Webster and [illegible] Heard of Boston.

Saratoga and its world-famous baths have attracted Josephine Sheehan of Boston, who is vacationing at the General Putnam Hotel, where Mrs. Leslie Collier of Needham is also registered.

Newly elected president of the Propyvia Club, Helen Lafferty of Dorchester, is summering at Falmouth Heights. Accompanying her is Margaret Mary Downey, of West Roxbury, national secretary of the Federation of College Catholic Clubs.

Marie Keenan, another prime mover in the Propyvia Club, is vacationing at Allerton.

Bishop Wedding in August

Helen Therese Bishop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bishop of Dorchester, has chosen the first Sunday in August as the date of her wedding to Charles Anthony Lewis, of Jamaica Plain.

The ceremony will take place in St. Peter's in Dorchester, and after a small reception the couple will leave on a tour of upper New York.

The bride-elect is an alumna of Mt. St. Joseph's Academy. Mr. Lewis, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Percival Lewis of Jamaica Plain, is a graduate of the Diesel Engineering School.

Much Entertaining For Elena Villa

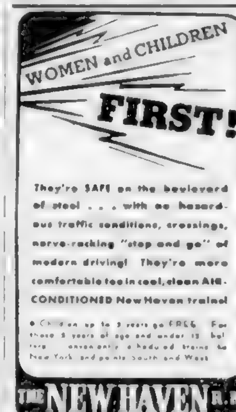

Entertaining for the bride-to-be will be a favorite pastime in Newport preceding Elena Villa's wedding to Robert Grant 3rd next month. Mrs. John Prentice has issued invitations to a dinner party at her estate, "Belmead," August 6, in honor of Miss Villa and her fiancé.

The future bride and her mother, Countess [illegible] Villa, who have been in New York on a shopping expedition the past few days, will return to Newport for the week-end.

"REDHEADS ARE LUCKY"

by Vera Brown

Handsome and Iris Part After Quarrel

CHAPTER 28

The famous pitcher sat with his head in his hands. He paid no attention to Iris' chatter [illegible] her grievances to Wish.

"He argues about money all the time. You'd think he earned $50 a week . . . instead of a thousand. I've got to keep up appearances. It was Ace that made me come along on this trip. Goodness knows, I didn't want to!"

Handsome still ignored her. Iris was near tears. She came over to Wish appealingly. "Can I help it if Handsome's luck's turned?"

Handsome reared himself out of the chair and started toward Iris. "What do you mean, my luck is gone?"

He thrust his hand into his pocket and brought out three pennies. "There's my luck, sister! Neither you nor anybody can take them away from me!"

"Your luck! You've lost five games straight!"

"Yes, my luck! And I had it before I ever knew you."

Iris' eyes blazed. "I suppose it was that redhead!" She jumped up. "I know where those pennies came from now. She gave them to you. Didn't she?" Iris was standing close to Handsome.

"What if she did?" He swayed back and forth.

Iris was beside herself with fury. She lunged at Handsome, grabbed the pennies from his hand. She rushed to the window and with a gesture threw them out of that [illegible] floor window, into Washington Boulevard below.

THE LAST STRAW

For a moment Handsome was too stunned to move. Then he rushed to the window. Iris had turned away, laughing at him. For one terrible moment, Wish thought he was going to choke the girl. Handsome stood there staring at her shallow, pretty face aflame with her triumph. When he finally spoke, his voice was quite sober, and he meant what he said.

"I hate you completely and thoroughly, and I shall never live with you again." That was all. He turned from her to Wish.

"Help me find those pennies," Handsome was breathing hard. "If we don't, I'm licked. I can't come back. Help me, Wish!"

Malone [illegible] the night manager and explained the situation. Then Handsome and Wish came down to the ballroom floor and they watched while two bellboys climbed [illegible] the marquee. They got flash lights and they hunted for a long time. Search on the pavement below had been futile. Handsome was in a highly excited state. Fever burned in his face.

"We've got to find them, one of them anyway. We've got to!"

Handsome described them over and over. They were just ordinary pennies, with holes punched in them. Small holes. Punches through the "O" that spelled out "One."

He was like an insane man. Half the hotel staff joined in the [illegible] all adored Handsome. It went on for hours. A guest who was an engineer tried to figure out mathematicaly just where the pennies would have fallen.

Finally, the night manager whispered orders to one of the bellboys. Half an hour later as the desperate search went on, Dick, the head bellboy cried out. "Guess I got one of 'em."

Handsome, leaning out of the [illegible] heard and rushed down to the front door. Dick was on his hands and knees in the little parkway across the pavement where he had found one penny. Handsome, dropped down beside him found a second one. He was wild with gratitude. Wish tipped all the boys, for Handsome had no money.

"I'M THROUGH"

Malone said, "Come with me, stay in my room tonight. I want to talk with you, anyway." Handsome was clutching his pennies in his hand. They went up to Wish's room. Handsome went over to the desk and sat down. He scrutinized the coins. Then he turned on Malone.

"You did that, Wish. These aren't my pennies. They're dated 1934. Mine were all 1920." Handsome slumped into a chair. Wish tried to deny his perfidy. "You meant [illegible] But I knew I would never find them again. It was [illegible] Wish."

Malone got him to bed [illegible]. In the morning they'd talk the whole thing over sensibly. As for Iris, Wish would recommend she be sent back to New York [illegible].

In the morning when Wish awakened he looked over at Handsome's bed. He lay there wide awake, his hands under his head. He did not bother to turn when Wish sat up and spoke to him.

"Well, here I am, 26 years old, and through! Done!" Wish tried to talk to him. He would not listen. "Ace might just as well release me. I'm finished! And besides that, I haven't a thin dime."

Malone's job was to keep an eye on Handsome. He was afraid the pitcher might jump out of a hotel window, so deep was his melancholy. It took all Wish's persuasion to keep Manager Ace Barnes from suspending Handsome then and there.

The sports writers had a little private dinner that week for Handsome. It was [illegible] one by one, they stood up and, instead of the usual testimonial speeches, they took Handsome apart. And each ended his little speech: "You are still the greatest pitcher in the league, if you'll behave yourself, leave liquor and women alone."

Regan took it like a soldier. He was grateful to them. But he persisted in the belief that he was through, that his luck was gone. Doctors thumped and X-rayed him. They tested and tested. There was absolutely nothing wrong organically with Handsome.

COMPLETELY RUINED

If you'll remember, Handsome was in the headlines most of the last part of the season, and he was always on the pan. There was talk of a divorce pending between him and Iris. The scandal of the bills brought more creditors, of course. The more debts, the more Handsome worried, and the more he drank. Owner Crisp was at the [illegible] his rope.

One newspaper was running a [illegible] "The Rise and Fall of Handsome Regan."

For three days in succession, Wish had managed to get Handsome out to the stadium after they got back home. He worked out obediently. He did everything he was told. But he just didn't have it any more. The old curve, which had been the terror of both leagues for two seasons, was gone . . . disappeared into thin air.

"Into a bunch of diamond bracelets and a bottle of whiskey?" Ace put it.

But that was not entirely so, Wish felt. The snap was gone because Handsome believed it was gone. He seemed content living with Wish . . .

Just how Handsome got hold of Mike's address Wish never found out, but one evening he disappeared before dinner. He set out to find Mike on an evening when she and Bob Kenyon were dining out.

HANDSOME KISSES MIKE. She realizes that she loves him despite the fact she has just promised to become the wife of Bob Kenyon, rich Harvard graduate.

They'd had a lovely evening quiet and cool, for they'd driven across to the Jersey shore and dined in the country. The drive back by moonlight had been perfect. And Mike, for the first time had promised Bob they would be married in the fall.

"MIKE WAS HIS!"

Kenyon was happy and made all kinds of plans. They'd go abroad, and have a house in the country when they got home. And Mike agreed. She was quite content. She had definitely made up her mind. Bob kissed her good night as they sat in the car in front of her apartment building and waited [illegible] she disappeared into the doorway before he drove away, singing under his breath. Mike was to be his!

She'd hardly shut the door of her apartment when somebody tapped on it. She opened it quickly, thinking that Bob had forgotten something. She stood there, her hat in her hand, a smile on her lips. The smile froze.

It was Handsome!

He came into the apartment and shut the door behind him. She stared at him without speaking. Had he been drinking? Without a word, he swept her into his arms and held her close. His lips on hers, and she could feel tears on her cheeks.

"My dear! My dear!" He would not let her go. In that moment she forgot Bob, everything else in the world except that Handsome had come back. He let her go for a moment, held her off so that he could look into her grey green eyes. He drew her over to the sofa, and pulled her down beside him.

"From the moment I left you nothing has been right!" He tried to tell her all that had happened. He held her close, whispered into her ear, smoothed her hair.

"I've never been happy a moment away from you, Skipper. You know that!" His words, his arms released the old flood of suffering, and Mike knew then that she would always love Handsome. There was no way out for her. Regan tried to explain to her how he had married, of the doubts which had been his.

"I'd never have done it even then, if I hadn't been drinking. You know that."

"YOU'LL GO BACK"

Mike, hiding the constant hurt in her heart, smiled and told him she believed him. He told Mike about her lucky pennies which were gone, and about how he was probably to be put out of the league in disgrace. He told her he was broke, his career gone, that he and Iris had parted.

Finally, Mike made Handsome listen to her for a little while. He [illegible] his arms around her, and if her words got too unpleasant, he kissed her. That did not make for effective argument on Mike's part. But she persisted.

"You must listen, darling! Everything depends on it. This isn't the end for you. From now on, I'm giving orders. You're going back to work. You'll take a salary cut if they give it to you. Wish will get your pay check, give you just enough to eat on and put the rest on those bills. They've got to be paid."

THE BLOW FALLS

Mike did not attempt to sleep. She bathed, dressed and went out. It was early. She decided she'd do her marketing for their supper. That would save time tonight. When she came back with her [illegible]

NOTHING exceeds LIKE SUCCESS!

... Especially in Newspaper Popularity

On April 25, the Daily Record and Evening American were combined, as one advertising unit, to form Boston's dominating daily newspaper market.

Now, this growing market has reached an average of 494,878, for the three-month period ending June 30!

For you who want statistics—the Record-American now reaches 78% more families than the 4th major Boston daily newspaper . . . 52% more than the 3rd paper . . . . 42% more than the 2nd. The Record-American now covers more than 33% of the Boston newspaper market—the 4th major paper only 19%—the 3rd, 22%—the 2nd, 24%.

Families make markets. Markets make sales. Sales make jobs—and more sales—and profits. Profits make dividends for stockholders of Boston stores. In the process of logical business mathematics, Boston stores will make plans to go after the business of the close-to-half-million acquisitive, ambitious families that make the Record-American Boston's best advertising investment.

Boston After Dark

By JACK CONWAY

GOOD NEWS for Boston school teachers and for girls desiring a college education at minimum cost . . . Henry Smith, chairman of the Boston School Committee, called this column on the telephone with the happy tidings that the Boston Teachers' College will NOT be closed . . . By unanimous vote the School Committee has agreed to keep the Boston Teachers' College open under an arrangement by which 60 freshmen will be accepted for enrollment each year provided they qualify at a special examination . . . There will be a charge of $60 a pupil, which is a decided contrast to the $400 to $800 tuition charges of some of the so-called better colleges.

JACK CONWAY

This decision by the School Committee will mean jobs for the present members of the faculty at the Boston Teachers' College . . . The advanced classes at the Boston Teachers' College will continue as in the past . . . The Boston Teachers' College has offered families of moderate means an opportunity to secure educations for their daughters, and should be given every possible assistance by public officials.

Chairman Smith asserted that the new law making it necessary for the Superintendent of Schools to approve locations for school buildings was a blow at land deals which have done much to place palatial school buildings in locations where they were not needed . . . Boston is rich enough to furnish suitable education for its youth, and proper instructors, provided costly buildings and new fangled teaching methods are eliminated.

Mortimer Mahony, who earns $100,000 a year directing the mutuel plants at the New England, Maryland and Florida race tracks, says he considers stenography, bookkeeping and accountancy the most important parts of a modern education . . . Mahony says that many college graduates who work for him have to start at the bottom and learn things they should have been taught in high school or in the first two years of college.

Daniel H. Coakley, Jr., tells this column he will [illegible] be a candidate [illegible] the office of Representative . . . His decision [illegible] as a result of a feeling that [illegible] could not [illegible] to the duties of [illegible] Representative [illegible] practice and family.

HOURLY PLAY-BY-PLAY IN THE STOCK MARKET

Buyers came to the support of the market today after an early sinking spell. Losses running to a point or more were replaced in large measure by gains of as much. Dealings, however, failed to pick up speed as prices rose.

10-11. There were few exceptions to a downtrend at the opening. [illegible] of fractions to more than a point showed throughout the list. It was very quiet. Here and there a stock lifted slightly. The trend fairly [illegible] over as the period wore on. While pivotals were [illegible] behind minus signs the market was irregular. The [illegible] depressed utilities and [illegible] did not do badly. Their declines were limited to fractions. [illegible] gains improved on by some [illegible] Notably aircrafts and rails [illegible] glided up a point to 3[illegible] as N. Y. Central and Atch steamed ahead. It was a dull hour with prices fairly steady at the end. Volume [illegible] shares.

11-12—With the tape loafing price changes were restricted to fractions either way. Few showed off as much as a point. Rails lost steam and dropped back, while aviations could not attract the followings needed to keep them going. The SEC charge that Associated Gas & Electric had violated both the holding company and securities laws tipped the utility section over. Ground was given up easily. And the movies, co-downside [illegible] lately, followed along. Dealings continued comparatively quiet. [illegible] predominated as the hour closed. Small price changes were the [illegible] Transfers [illegible] shares.

News calculated to affect stock prices is decidedly mixed these days and the stock market is steering an uncertain course. Remedies Offered for New Deal Disease

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, July 22. Readers of this column have surely noted the large amount of criticism of the uneconomic policies of the New Deal. It is necessary to diagnose the disease and to cure it before we can regain our health.

Today, however, I want to suggest some remedies. After we have learned that "easy money" is not good money, that "managed currency" means managed business, and that we can't prime a bucket pump, then we will want to return to sound principles.

The first great essential of recovery and prosperity is to encourage private enterprise. This is the only way to give really productive employment to labor.

To encourage private enterprise we need the following action:

Take the government out of business except as a regulator.

Establish fair labor relations beginning by repealing the Wagner act and substituting a modern law based upon experience here and elsewhere, notably in England and Canada.

Then continue by fundamentally revising the social security act which as it now stands is a fraud on the public, and an encouragement to government waste.

Kick out the WPA [illegible] as private employment [illegible]

Re-establish the [illegible] that investment and [illegible] business plans can be carried out. [illegible] it will be necessary to balance the federal budget [illegible] [illegible] trade [illegible]

Encourage investment [illegible] [illegible] new capital.

Restore the balance among prices, wages and interest rates [illegible] [illegible] to establish [illegible] competition.

The second great essential [illegible] [illegible] private enterprise.

Needless to say the foregoing program would be supplemented by a system of direct local relief for involuntary unemployment, [illegible] by direct regulations to prevent abuse of important limited natural resources.

P. K. Wrigley Follows Dad's Hire-Fire System

WHEN PAUL K. WRIGLEY INHERITED his father's millions, a chewing-gum monopoly and the Chicago Cub's baseball firm, he also inherited his parent's impatience toward all forms of failure. Before he died in 1935 Old Bill Wrigley never tolerated failure from his employes. He hired a foreman for his spearmint plantations to grow herbs of a standard flavoring and if, by drouth or weevils, the man grew a mediocre crop Old Bill put it squarely up to him.

Austen Lake

Old Bill also hired his baseball managers for the sole purpose of winning pennants and if they couldn't win, he fired them and hired somebody who could. In time, or about 1929, he found a manager named Joe McCarthy who could and did win a pennant. But he fired him, too, after a few years, because he couldn't win a World Series. He did it without compunction, releasing his decision to the newspapers before wiring Joe that he was discharged. I know because I brought McCarthy the press notice at an uptown Boston hotel.

So Old Bill gave Joe's job to Rogers Hornsby [illegible] But it wasn't very long before he yanked that [illegible] and put up Charley Grimm for whom he [illegible] His judgment seemed sound for Charley [illegible] and another [illegible] Old Bill had [illegible] and [illegible] to young P. K.

Dean the Indirect Cause

PAUL WRIGLEY IS A STOUT, BALDISH young man who had never developed any interest in baseball during Old Bill's lifetime. He came straight from college to ho'e up in the gum business, traveling among the South American chicle plantations and buzzing around the [illegible] centers. In fact he was so little seen about his father's ball park that the guards gave him the sidewalk bounce when he first tried to crash his own gates.

But after the elder's demise Paul took to seeing occasional home games and gradually became a howling fan and grandstand master mind. So this Spring he shovelled up $185,000 from his cash bins and bought Dizzy Dean from the Cardinals on Grimm's assurance that this was a sure-fire means of clinching the 1938 pennant. And thereby hangs misadventure which led to Charley's own undoing.

P. K. was piqued when Dean sprouted the [illegible] P. K. [illegible] Diz [illegible] and Diz won [illegible]

SO DIZZY'S FOUR-HIT VICTORY OVER the Bees last Sunday was the climax which capped P. K.'s growing conviction that Grimm was too lenient with his slaves. The big man's inherent good nature and his dislike to prodding his hired hands, prompted P. K. to swing his hatchet. So, big and equally good-natured Gabby Hartnett got the job. And in time, and probably no very long time either according to the Wrigley precedent, P. K. will slap Gabby down too and put on another man. As king maker, the Wrigleys have dealt strictly in limited monarchies.

Gabby went to the Cubs in 1922 from Worcester and [illegible]

Gabby Humane Toward Tony

REPORTS OF IMPENDING dismissal have persisted all summer, but then, reports of any major league manager's discharge could be accurately spread at any time with the act only a question of how long the delay—all except Connie Mack, who owns the controlling stock in his own firm.

They were also insistent upon the reports of a conflict in ambition [illegible] and Tony Lazzeri who [illegible] post on [illegible] retained [illegible] baseball [illegible] There were similar conflicts when Frankie Frisch took over the management of the Cardinals in 1933 and [illegible] his roommate and [illegible] and when Bill Terry assumed control of the [illegible] same year and [illegible] chum and fellow [illegible] McGraw, Freddy Lindstrom. And Bill McKechnie [illegible] Babe Ruth from the [illegible] A manager does [illegible]

Well, Hartnett has no romantic illusions toward the job to which he was called so unexpectedly but inevitably. Still, in his private character, Paul K. Wrigley is sentimental and even generous and rival ball people like him much better than you would expect them to on the basis of his cold treatment in matters of business. Win him a pennant and you have only done your job. Lose one and you have failed. Like his father he is no hero worshipper.

Sox Meet Cleveland At Fenway

By BILL GRIMES

After five days of the most [illegible] the weather man has [illegible] to reason allowing the Red Sox and the Cleveland Indians to open their four game series this afternoon at Fenway Park.

The Red Sox have been idle since last Sunday when they hung a [illegible] on the St. Louis Browns.

[illegible]

Joe Cronin

[illegible] the Red Sox were [illegible] of the St. Louis [illegible] series.

Lefty [illegible] was released from the St. Elizabeth's Hospital last Saturday. Johnny Marcum had [illegible] up with a torn muscle in his pitching arm. Jack Wilson was not ready to take his regular turn on the hilltop and Cronin himself was [illegible] a bruised knee.

"I think the Red Sox benefited from the long lay off," confessed Cronin this morning.

"It's tough to hang around idle for four days, but I think the rest gave the boys a chance to regain some of their "pep," and I look for them to start hitting just where they left off last Sunday."

"The Indians have laid off only two days. They beat the Yankees in New York last Tuesday, which, of course, met with our approval.

"Although we have been waiting four days to get back into action, I still think we will have the edge on the Indians.

"We have been idle at home, and you know the boys do not overload their stomachs only when they are on the road.

"Cleveland players have been hanging around the Hotel New Yorker over in Gotham, and I'll bet that none of them has missed a meal.

"With three squares daily and no exercise, the Indians may have some trouble moving this afternoon."

Famous Names in 'Gansett Entries | New Horses to Run in Stakes

—By JACK CONWAY—

THERE'S ALWAYS a great fascination in poring over nominations made for famous horse races, and we got quite a kick when Billy Ames invited us down to 'Gansett to look through the amazing list of thoroughbreds that are scheduled to be on hand when the Pawtucket plant swings into action on Monday, August 1.

Mr. Boston

Names long famous in racing history are found at the foot of practically every one of 'Gansett's nomination blanks. Horses that have been but remote names loom closer when you read their entries, and a thousand and one stories flood the memory as you turn over page after page of the records Bill Ames sets before you.

For instance, War Feathers, one of America's greatest broodmares, is represented by three of her offspring at 'Gansett. This daughter of Man o' War was the most expensive filly ever sold at the Saratoga sales, James Cox Brady paying a cool fifty grand for her. On the race course she was almost a complete failure, winning but one race.

Mr. Cox in disgust, retired her to the breeding farm and at once she began to produce winners. In five successive generations she has thrown five stake winners. Her produce running at [illegible] will be a 2-year-old filly named War Plumage, a 3-year-old [illegible] named War Magic and Mrs. Emil Denemark's War [illegible] [illegible] at Arlington Park.

[illegible]

The 2-year-old stakes are [illegible]. Looks like a battle for juvenile honors when Heather Time [illegible] [illegible] E. [illegible] and [illegible] A. L. Silver can thank the lucky stars and Mrs. Frank Carreaud for the privilege of owning Heather Time [illegible]

Carreaud was looking for a representative to take the place of Time Supply and War Glory in his stake string. He liked the looks of Heather Time, but bowed to the hunch of Mrs. Carreaud, who opined the filly would never amount to much. He sold to Silver for $3000 and she immediately began wrecking track records and, incidentally, Frank Carreaud's nervous system.

LOTS OF NEW names in the stakes. [illegible] Cross Keys [illegible] Play [illegible] [illegible] Navarre, [illegible] Teufel, Mr [illegible] Drift [illegible] Zenson [illegible] [illegible] Throttle Wide [illegible] Rex Flag Stagehand The Chief [illegible] Masked General, Thanksgiving, [illegible] and Esposa and a flock of others. That's what New England needs. A shot in the arm of new faces and new stables to revive a jaded interest—and that's exactly what Narragansett Park has accomplished. There are stables and horses gathered at the Little Rhody track never before seen in this section.

[illegible] W. E. Boeing, the West Coast airplane magnate, is shipping East for the first time. Bing was named by Boeing for one of the two-year-old stakes. He's by Upset out of LaLuau, a full brother to the consistent Upsilon. William M. Elder was a [illegible] nominator. He has the stallion Bud Lerner on his farm and most of his youngsters are by the famous sire. They're gifted with extreme early speed, although few ever liked to go a route. In spite of this fact, Mrs. Parker Corning named Bud Lerner's three-year-old son, Thanksgiving, for the 'Gansett Special after that recent brilliant race back of Esposa.

Seabiscuit is almost lost among the 39 nominees for the Special. After War Minstrel licked the Howard representative many owners lost their fear of the son of Hard Tack and a capacity field will parade to post for this year's renewal of the $25,000 stake. Masked General is in there. He almost whipped War Admiral last year . . . Remember? If he hadn't bolted at the head of the stretch he might have been the first to down the mighty mite.

Stagehand and The Chief will, of course, perform in their usual Damon and Pythias role. The Chief will be out setting the pace, permitting Stagehand to make his usual late run through the stretch. It may be a repetition of the Santa Anita Handicap when Seabiscuit and Stagehand hook up in the last furlong.

Esposa, from the Ziegler Farm, won many admirers after her record-breaking performance a week ago. Rex Flag finished second that day and is also nominated. Upholding the prestige of the New England regulars will be such as Eastport, Peligroso 2d and Panther Creek.

We could go on and on, finding interesting faces and interesting features about the stakes . . . but we'll leave it up to the horses themselves to attract your attention further during the summer meeting at Narragansett Park. We merely close with the parting reminder that the stakes are the classiest we've ever seen.

British Stars Withdraw

NEW YORK, July 22 (INS)—Two members of the British Curtis Cup golf team have withdrawn from the international competition, the British Ladies' Golf Union advised the United States Golf Association today.

Mrs. Marjorie Ross Garon and Miss Pamela Barton have withdrawn and have been replaced by the Misses Nan Baird and Phyllis Wade for the cup matches to be played September 7-8 at the Essex Country Club, Manchester.

The U. S. G. A. also announced that several of the British Curtis cuppers will play in the women's national golf championship beginning September 19 at Wilmette, Ill.

FIRST RACE—FUTURITY

First Half Daily Double

TRANSPORTER, DON LASH, PEPPER ROLL

PP.	Dog	Wt.	Owner	Odds
5	Transporter	64	W. L. Bryant	4-1
8	Don Lash	54½	O. Damberg	4-1
7	Pepper Roll	63	Sam Haire	3-1
2	Mopope	59	Fred Strout	3-1
3	Glenfield	62	W. B. Hall	5-1
4	Laguna Ben	62	Cedar Pt. Ken.	6-1
8	Lorenna Moone	61	M. T. Dubiel	8-1
1	Joe Cotton	61	O. K. Woolard	8-1

TRANSPORTER rates the call over this band with DON LASH its most serious menace. PEPPER ROLL should save the show.

SECOND RACE—FUTURITY

Second Half Daily Double

DOERING, BEADED WINGS, WISWALL

PP.	Dog	Wt.	Owner	Odds
1	Doering	63½	W. L. Bryant	3-1
7	Beaded Wings	59	Dan Sullivan	4-1
3	Wiswall	62	Cedar Pt. Ken.	3-1
5	Lazy Ben	60	Pat Conway	5-1
4	Joe Di Mag	61	O. Damberg	9-1
8	Mary Speed	63	Hubert Bryant	9-1
2	Red Teddy	61	F. B. Stotz	8-1
6	Carl C.	60	L. M. Kirkpatrick	8-1

With the red blanket DOERING shapes up best of this field the BEADED WINGS will be close. WISWALL should take the balance.

THIRD RACE—5-16THS MILE

ROSANNA, CAP HARE, FAWN BISON

PP.	Dog	Wt.	Owner	Odds
3	Rosanna	61	Fred Pastime	3-1
4	Cap Hare	59	Forbe Spencer	4-1
7	Fawn Bison	59½	Dan Sullivan	3-1
2	Just Vera	59	Ben Neal, Jr.	3-1
5	Prairie Moon	51½	W. L. Bryant	6-1
1	Liquid Fire	59	Cedar Pt. Ken.	8-1
8	Judge's [illegible]	63	Homer Bagwell	8-1
6	Classy Sport	56	F. B. Stotz	8-1

ROSANNA should get away enough to take an early lead and never be headed. CAP HARE should finish the contention with FAWN BISON taking the rest of the money.

FOURTH RACE—FUTURITY

MORE CLASS, HABERDASHER, BOOM TOWN

PP.	Dog	Wt.	Owner	Odds
1	More Class	61	W. B. Hall	3-1
4	Haberdasher	60½	O. Damberg	6-1
2	Boom Town	61	Jess Williams	5-1
6	Rusty Comer	52	O. & B. Kennel	5-1
7	Specture Crony	50	Ben Neal, Jr.	6-1
5	Upper Class	56	Art Wilson	6-1
8	Joe Larm	60	K. Stephenson	8-1
3	Bookmaker	58	M. J. Gavan	8-1

From the outside MORE CLASS figures to top this field, but will have to keep fast time to win; ahead of HABERDASHER. BOOM TOWN for what is left.

Sparky Speaks

FIFTH RACE—5-16THS MILE

CLAUDIE, JACK LONDON, SCHOOL GOER

PP.	Dog	Wt.	Owner	Odds
1	Claudie	54	Al Smart	3-1
4	Jack London	66	G. H. Rogers	4-1
3	School Goer	64	J. Highhouse	5-1
2	Crack Up	71	F. L. Brunis	5-1
7	Spare	65	J. L. Ayotte	6-1
6	Medulla	69	K. Stephenson	6-1
8	Tray Actor	64	Forbe Spencer	8-1
5	Frisco Bebe	51½	E. Rhine	8-1

CLAUDIE, especially with the red blanket, should repeat its last and score, but by no great margin for JACK LONDON has plenty of foot. SCHOOL GOER should save the show.

SIXTH RACE—FUTURITY

FLEET WAY, ANDREW MEADOWS, COURAGEOUS CARESS

PP.	Dog	Wt.	Owner	Odds
1	Fleet Way	71	M. J. Gavan	3-1
2	Andrew Meadows	69	O. & B. Kennel	4-1
7	Courage's Caress	70	C. A. Rhodes	5-1
3	Dusty War	60	Fred Strout	5-1
8	Mickey's Friend	62	M. T. Dubiel	6-1
5	March Past	65	Pat Conway	6-1
6	My Dicky	66	J. Highhouse	8-1
4	So Lucky	50	Ben Neal, Jr.	8-1

FLEET WAY figures much the best and should win from wire to wire. ANDREW MEADOWS figures to nose out COURAGEOUS CARESS.

SEVENTH RACE—5-16THS MILE

BEN'S SHADOW, MISTER E. S. T., BEN LARK

PP.	Dog	Wt.	Owner	Odds
1	Ben's Shadow	60	M. J. Gavan	3-1
6	Mister E. S. T.	65	Cedar Pt. Ken.	4-1
4	Ben Lark	68	K. Stephenson	3-1
3	Romona Breeze	60	G. Lippold, Jr.	5-1
8	Gleeful	70	Jess Williams	6-1
2	Public Enemy	72	Dew Kennel	6-1
7	Classy Traffic	54	F. L. Brunis	8-1
5	Jackie Neil	55	A. L. Smart	8-1

BEN'S SHADOW likes the rail and should head MISTER E. S. T. round the first turn. The latter might upset these calculations and BEN LARK should show.

EIGHTH RACE—FUTURITY

CHINKO, SIDE WIND, LADY BLONDELL

PP.	Dog	Wt.	Owner	Odds
3	Chinko	74	Paul Boone	3-1
6	Side Wind	72	Jess Williams	4-1
8	Lady Blondell	59	M. C. Sparks	5-1
2	Mutton Broth	66	J. L. Ayotte	5-1
5	Cavalcade Caress	65	C. A. Rhodes	6-1
1	Gionna Launa	62	M. J. Gavan	6-1
4	Alla Fame	59	O. R. Wobland	8-1
7	Silver Lene	53	G. Lippold, Jr.	8-1

CHINKO outfooted a smart field in 29 seconds flat its last time out and figures to out break and lead this band from wire to wire. SIDE WIND will furnish the serious competition with LADY BLONDELL a money possibility.

NINTH RACE—3/16THS MILE

Sportsmen's Park Inaugural Purse

MRS. SIMPSON, MIRACULOUS, MAJOR JAMESTOWN

PP.	Dog	Wt.	Owner	Odds
1	Mrs. Simpson	57	J. L. Ayotte	3-1
4	Miraculous	53	M. C. Sparks	4-1
8	Maj. Jamestown	69	O. R. Wobland	5-1
2	Traffic Nell	44	Frank Lane	5-1
6	Lucille Larry	50	G. Lippold, Jr.	6-1
7	Gilby's Gin	64	Dan Sullivan	6-1
3	Marge Clark	52	M. T. Dubiel	8-1
5	Big Frank	78	Hubert Bryant	8-1

MRS. SIMPSON has the class, the foot, and the right post to lead this band right from the break. MIRACULOUS should furnish most of the contention with MAJOR JAMESTOWN rushing into the money.

TENTH RACE—5-16THS MILE

MY BUGGER, BRIGHT BEAVER, SNOW DOWN

PP.	Dog	Wt.	Owner	Odds
8	My Bugger	65	J. L. Ayotte	3-1
2	Bright Beaver	64	Tom Baird	4-1
4	Snow Down	54	F. L. Brunis	5-1
1	Meadow Cutlet	63	M. C. Sparks	5-1
7	Carhan's Expr's	61	W. B. Hall	6-1
3	Scarred Lady	54	O. & B. Kennel	6-1
6	Just Chinita	53½	W. L. Bryant	8-1
5	Rosaleen Moore	55	Homer Bagwell	8-1

MY BUGGER can win even from the outside posting, but can make no errors for BRIGHT BEAVER likes the rail and can run some. SNOW DOWN for the balance.

Cochrane Hunts For Pitchers In Museum

By Associated Press

A Washington baseball writer, seeking relief from the heat outside, ran into Mickey Cochrane browsing around among the mummies in Capital museum a couple of mornings ago.

"What," asked the astonished scribe, "are you doing here, Mickey?"

The Detroit Tigers' manager glanced cautiously over each shoulder, ah-h-hed the scribe with finger to lips, leaned over and whispered, "I'm looking for a couple of pitchers."

And there, boys and girls, you have the newest and deepest of the blues—the Cochrane chant, the moan that accompanies the Tikens' drop from fourth to sixth place in two weeks.

It was a tough break that Mickey lost a lot of his power when Roundhouse Rudy York was sent to a hospital hit on the head by one of Monte Weaver's pitches while the Senators were twisting Tiger's tail, 4-3.

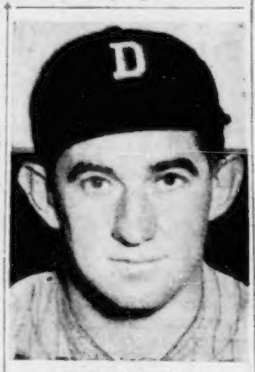

But a tougher dose to take is that the pitching, pride of the American League only a couple of years ago, is a "cousin" to the rest of the loop right now. Schoolboy Rowe is gone—back to the minors.

Tommy Bridges hasn't started a game since June 28. Roxie Lawson's luck has run out. And Vernon Kennedy, who looked like the extra dividend on that White Sox deal, has lost three in a row—hasn't won, in fact, since June 22.

On top of that, Mickey, who thought he was weeding out the whackiness by trading Gerry Walker to Chicago, and who thought he had a lot of pitcher in Poof Poffenberger, is having a rude awakening on both counts.

For Poof still has something to learn about the pitching business, but has graduated with honors and a master's degree from the daffy school.

He disappears for days at a time; his training ritual just isn't, and he forgets to cover first when the other fielders are busy. Quite a lad is Poof. It got so bad yesterday Mickey had to send him home—but before they could get around to giving him his ticket, Poof had disappeared.

MICKEY COCHRANE

Rudy York

On the Mend

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP)—Garfield Hospital physicians reported today that Rudy York—injured Detroit catcher—spent a comfortable night.

York was hit on the head by one of Pitcher Monte Weaver's fast balls during yesterday's game between Detroit and Washington.

Dr. J. Lloyd Collins said a decision as to when York could resume play depended on what X-ray pictures disclosed.

Test Game

In Refrigerators

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., July 22 (AP)—The Pennsylvania game commission will place live game birds and animals in a combination refrigerator-hot box to learn how they react under varying climatic conditions.

Richard Gerstell, in charge of research for the commission, announced today the apparatus, now under construction at a game farm near this Northern Pennsylvania city, would simulate all types of weather.

Within the cork-lined "box," large enough to hold a deer in comfort, winds will blow, rain will fall and storms will howl in temperatures ranging from 20 degrees below zero to 120 degrees above.

Special lights will duplicate sunlight or the diffused light from a cloud-covered sky. Dawn or dusk will come at the turn of a switch at the will of the experimenters.

Complicated recording devices will keep tab on how the animals or birds, either singly or in groups, act during the changing "seasons" within the device.

Yugoslavia!

Beats Belgium, 3-0

BRUSSELS, July 22 (AP)—Yugoslavia's crack Davis Cup tennis team clinched a place in the European zone finals today by defeating Belgium, 3—0.

The Yugoslav doubles team of Frank Kukuljevic and Josip Mitic defeated L. De Borman and Pierre Geelhand, 6—3, 6—3, 3—6, 10—8, for the clinching victory.

The Yugoslavs won both of yesterday's opening singles matches.

S. S. Golf Tilt On Sunday

Kenneth Cooke, pro at the South Shore Country Club found the green and fairways unplayable and with the consent of the club fathers postponed the M.C.A. tournament that was scheduled for today and tomorrow.

Instead the whole affair will take place Sunday. According to "Cookie" the pries for this affair are the best that the club has offered for years.

Chotteau Off On 56-Mile Swim

VENICE, Cal., July 22 (AP)—Barrel-chested Paul Chotteau, aquatic violinist, tomorrow will set out on a 56-mile ocean swim from Santa Barbara Island to this beach resort.

Two years ago, after six previous attempts, the 40-year-old Frenchman swam from San Catalina Island to Santa Monica, 44 miles, in 33 hours.

GRAND CIRCUIT OFF AGAIN

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Me., July 22 (AP)—A greasy track forced Grand Circuit harness men and horses into another day of idleness today.

Big League Stars

By The Associated Press

Clay Bryant, Cubs, and Luke Hamlin and Dolph Camilli, Dodgers—Bryant's four-hitter beat Dodgers, 5—2, in opener; Hamlin pitched two-hitter and Camilli hit homer for 1—0 Brooklyn nightcap game.

Dutch Leonard, Senators—Doubled and scored winning run to top Tigers, 6—5, in ninth.

Lee Handley, Pirates—His ninth-inning triple with bases loaded beat Phillies 5—4.

Carl Hubbell, Giants—Whipped Cardinals, 5—2, with five hits.

Boxing Results

PORTLAND, Me.—Mike Kaplan, Roxbury, Mass., received newspaper decision over Paul Junior, Lewiston, Me., lightweight champion (10).

CHICAGO, Ill.—Buddy Knox, 185, Dayton, O., received unanimous decision over Al McCoy, 180, Boston, Mass. (10).

Ettore Picks Galento to Beat Lewis

PHILADELPHIA, July 22 (AP)—Al Ettore, who has fought them both, picked Tony Galento today to knock out John Henry Lewis "within five rounds" in their 15-round fight here next Tuesday night.

With the colorful, beer-drinking Galento rated the foremost contender for the heavyweight championship by the National Boxing Association, every fight expert in the country will watch how he fares against Lewis, the light heavyweight champion.

"Tony's a mauler," said Ettore. Philadelphian who has fought all the leading heavyweights, including champion Joe Louis, in the last few years.

"He does everything but bite you.

"Lewis is a smarter and more clever fighter. I think he punches harder than Galento, but I figure he won't be able to take Tony's mauling the way Galento will be able to take Lewis' punches.

"If by any chance Lewis gets by the first five rounds, Tony will then probably win by a decision."

U. S. Athletes Supreme

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 22 (AP)—Athletes from half a dozen European nations and the United States started the third day of their three-day international meet today with no one in sight able to head off the stampeding Americans.

Fred Wolcott, the sensational sophomore hurdler from Rice Institute, and Ben Johnson, ex-Columbia captain, were outstanding as the Americans won five of seven events yesterday.

Wolcott won his second race in two days in the 110-meter hurdles in 13.9 only two-tenths of a second away from the accepted world's record of Forrest (Spec) Towns. Johnson completed a sweep of the sprints by winning the 200 meters in a respectable 20.9.

Howie Borck, of Manhattan, captured his first victory of the trip when he took the 1000-meter run in 2:31. The Europeans won their only flat victory in the two-mile run, won by Pekuri, of Finland, in 9:01.8 with Miklos Szabo, of Hungary, second in 9:06. A team of Johnson, Wolcott, Gil Cruter of Colorado, and Ray Malott of Stanford and the Olympic Club captured a 1000-meter medley relay in 1:56.5.

Cruter scored the lone American field victory with a leap of 6 feet 6¾ inches in the high jump. Pete Zagar of Stanford finished fifth in the discus throw with a toss of 151 feet 1 27-64 inches. The event was won by Hedvall of Sweden with 161 feet 10 9-16 inches.

49 Tournament Eliminations

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP)—Raymond Dumont, president of the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress, announced today that 49 state eliminations would be held this year.

Teams in all the states and the District of Columbia must clear their play-offs before the national finals at Wichita, Kan., August 12 to 24.

Tops Drive

Scores Ace

COLUMBIA, S. C.—Here's the contribution of Colin Monteith, Jr., to your collection of golf stories: He topped his drive, yet got a hole-in-one.

It was a 175-yard downhill hole. The topped ball trickled down the fairway, rolled into a trap, hung uncertainly an instant, then rolled on. It stopped in the cup.

Ambers Certain He Can Whip Armstrong

By Associated Press

Lou Ambers is a cocky, confident little fellow who honestly believes he's going to spill a lot of dope and lick Henry Armstrong August 12.

At his Summit, N. J., training camp today Ambers said: "If I ever bet on fights (which I don't) I sure would grab some of those juicy 3 to 1 odds they are tossing around Broadway.

"I am going to win this fight . . . I want to lick Armstrong just about as badly as Louis wanted to trim Schmeling . . . I'll do it, too . . . I may not knock the fellow out but I'll give him a boxing lesson he'll remember for a long time and at the end of 15 rounds you'll hear the announcer say: 'The winner and still champion, Lou Ambers.'"

GALENTO ON HAND

Another guest at Madame Bey's famous training resort at Summit is Tony Galento, the Newark night stick . . . He is getting ready for his joust in Philly with John Henry Lewis, the light heavyweight champion, on July 26 . . . Not many smart fight men believe Tony can lay a hand on John Henry (who is the best boxer in the ring today), but all agree that if he does it will be good night for John . . . Galento can't fight a lick, but he can hit as hard as a mule kicks and once he connects the birds start singing for anybody who may be on the other end of the sock.

Tony Galento

CHARLIE GAME

Our new skimmer goes right off to Charlie Grimm, who wouldn't quit under fire . . . They have been after the guy for years, but he didn't give up until they made him . . . Grimm is a grand fellow, a good baseball manager and a swell friend . . . Everyone wishes him all the luck in the world . . . Phil Wrigley stuck by him a long time, too . . . Now that his number is up and he's got to go, they couldn't have made a more popular choice with every fan in Chicago and every other National League City.

DEMAND TRADES

Enrico Venturi, the Italian light weight, is back in the old country, which is enough to say about Enrico . . . Don Faurot is reported to have more material than you can shake a stick at down at Missouri . . . Down in Birmingham Jimmy Erwin well known as manager of Petey Sarron, is getting some flatiz talent ready for an Eastern invasion . . . The writers out Detroit way are calling for some trades to snap the Tigers out of the doldrums . . . They should call for some headache powders for Black Mike Cochrane, too . . . What with Baron Poffenberger's wild and wooly ways and an in-and-out team poor Mike is getting mighty little shuteye these hot nights.

Back on Track

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—Col. E. R. Bradley of Lexington, Ky., prominent turfman who has been ill for several months with a blood clot on his brain, was so well recovered today that he went to Saratoga, N. Y.

He will attend the opening of the racing season there next Monday.

Stoneham Has Faith In Giants

NEW YORK, July 22 (INS)—If the New York Giants, National League champions last season, have hit a slump out West, Horace Stoneham, their owner, today isn't worrying about it.

"Slumps come to all teams at one time or another," Stoneham said. "I don't think this one's serious."

He blamed the sag on the absence of keymen, pointing out that the injury to Joe Moore has caused the Giants more trouble "than people think." He also mentioned the failure of Alex Kampouris, second baseman obtained several weeks ago from the Cincinnati Reds, to hit.

"I think the kid'll come through, though," he said.

"The Pirates have been playing beyond the percentage and over their heads," Stoneham commented on the league leaders. "They're not really that good a ball club. I don't believe they can last."

Stoneham believes the switch in managers from Charley Grimm to Gabby Hartnett and the recovery of Dizzy Dean may be what the Chicago Cubs need to make them spurt upward.

He called the Reds an in-and-out ball club that was fortunate to pick up such brilliant youngsters as Vander Meer, McCormick and Craft in one bunch.

Casey-Shikat Bout Monday

Dick Shikat and Steve Casey were back training today so as to keep on edge for their world's heavyweight championship wrestling bout that will be held at Fenway Park on Monday night.

The postponement is expected to help Shikat, who is a veteran of the mat wars, and not so nervous as the powerful Casey.

Bowser decided to put his show over until next Monday night in view of the prediction of additional showers.

Bowser is one of the busiest men in town as a result of his activities in connection with the Shikat-Casey bout, and also with his duties as general manager of the Grand Circuit meeting that opens at Agawam on next Wednesday afternoon.

The Grand Circuit meeting will last for ten days, and will find the great Greyhound in action on next Friday afternoon.

Simms Suspended For Six Months

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21 (INS)—The state boxing commission late today suspended Eddie Simms, Cleveland heavyweight, for six months and forfeited his share of the purse in his recent fight with Phil Brubaker of Dinuba, which was halted in the seventh round as "no contest."

The commission held that Simms "did not put forth an honest exhibition of skill." Brubaker, who had been temporarily suspended pending investigation, was reinstated.

They're 'Gabby' Hartnett's Cubs Now

"GABBY" HARTNETT, new manager of the Chicago Cubs, gave his charges a fight talk before taking on the Dodgers in a doubleheader at Wrigley Field. "Gabby" came up with a .500 average on his managerial debut, when his Cubs took the opening game, 5 to 2, and lost the nightcap, 1 to 0, while Luke "Hot Potato" Hamlin held the Hartnettites to two singles.

Few Golf Pros Available for Sunday Lessons

By BILL GRIMES

It will be a waste of time and effort to attempt to book any lessons from your professional for this week-end. For with very few exceptions, golf instructors will be at Poland Springs, Me., for the second annual northeastern pro-amateur championship, a 36-hole event which will start on Sunday and wind up the ensuing day.

FEW MISSING

Among the professionals from this immediate section that has signified their intentions to compete are Denny Shute, Brae Burn; John Bernardi, Charles River; Johnny Thoren, Woodland; Harry Nettelbladt, Framingham; Les Cottrell, Bear Hill; Fred Low, Oakley; Arthur Johnson, Weston; Joe Stien, Sandy Burr; Jack Gray, Wollaston; Clarlie Malloy, Furnace Brook; Willie Duffy, Trapelo; Jim Fogerty, Myopia; Tom Mahan, United Shoe; Alex Ellis, Tedesco; Marty Higgins, Fall River; Bill Cosgrove, Wachusett; Marty Keane, Walpole; George Apple, Meadow Brook; Jack Reidy, Pakachoag Hills; John Shimkonis, Andover; Francis Sheedy, Bass River; Joe Rustic, Bellevue; Jim Lally, Franklin, and Larry Gannon, Happy Valley.

The pros will have from two to six amateur partners at Poland. Les Cottrell will top the field according to his latest reports for he will have Frank Perry, Jack Eaton, Ed Neilson, Hal Lombard, Paul Shea and Stan Hobbs.

The Bear Hill amateur representatives are a threat but the odds are against Cottrell's finishing despite the assistance of six able bodied amateurs.

IN MONEY

At this writing it looks as though Harry Nettelbladt should be the odds on favorite to annex the largest share of the purse.

Denny Shute will have three Brae Burn members with him, and naturally since he is the ex-P.G.A. champion, will get the gallery.

Johnny Thoren, the long hitter from Woodland, has signed up Joe Lynch, Frank Juggins and Frank Maguire. The routine of the Woodlanders will be for Thoren and Lynch to shoot the golf, Frank Juggins to supply the comedy and Frank Maguire to act as general advisor.

Jim Fogerty, Myopia, has a couple of openings in his lineup. At present he has only Noel Radford, the tennis professional at the Hamilton club. Radford, who is the badminton champion, and brother of the late Lady Radford, was born in England and took up golf seriously after migrating to Canada. Bobby Knowles may fill up one of the gaps on the Myopia entry and Teddy Adams, the ex-caddy champion, the other.

REIDY FAMILY

Arthur Johnson will team up with Judge Crafts, Walter Reid and H. J. Maynard, while Joe Monahan, Jr., Jim Horan and Doug Backer will pair up with Joe Stien.

Three of the famous Reidy family from Worcester will be in action—Jack, hte pro; Bill and Leo, along with Wally Massey.

Big Tourneys Ahead for Local Net Fans

World's Greatest Tennis Stars to Pass on Parade

By WALTER KILEY

New England becomes the world's tennis capital for a period of two weeks starting with Monday, August 15.

All Longwood Bowl adversity caused by this weeks dire weather, was forgotten when the Davis Cup inter-zone final was awarded the Cricket Club for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August 18-19-20.

Wilmer Allison

While the winner of the European challenge round—if all goes according to form, it should be the Yugoslavs—is meeting the winner of the North American challenge round—Australia is favored—for the right to meet United States, defending champion, in the Davis Cup finals in September, the world's greatest women players will be competing the entire week at Essex County Club, and Don Budge, Gene Mako and other male stars will be holding forth at the same time at the annual Newport Invitation tourney.

Following which the national doubles, comprising the most star-studden field in all history, with every one of the prominent tennis nations liberally represented, will take over at Longwood the week of August 22nd.

When it is realized that the much anticipated Helen Wills Moody-Helen Jacobs battle is due for renewal at Essex County, some concept of the tennis in store over the short two weeks' period can be gleaned.

France, Germany, Belgium, England, Japan, Australia, Canada, Mexico and United States will have their outstanding court representatives waging their tennis wars on courts nearby Boston.

Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., who retired the Longwood Bowl last year, hopes to stage a doubles comeback with his former tennis and present business partner, Johnny Van Ryn, in the coming nationals. The pair, counted one of the best doubles teams of all time, won the national doubles in 1931 and 1935 and are hopeful that they can beat Don Budge and Gene Mako and any other star teams, to retire the famous trophy this year.

Johnny Van Ryn

meous trophy this year.

Experts are singing the praises of young Kovacs of Hungarian-born parents, a six-foot four-inch youth, handsome, and with the ideal tennis temperament. They are likening him to Bill Tilden for his terrific service, his disposition and court tactics. One and all predict a bright future for him.

Camera-Shy Sun Finally Caught

Take a Look

Strange, What?

This Is It

Watch for .t

Now you see it—now you don't.

The Boston Evening American herewith today presents exclusive photographs of a strange phenomenon that appeared intermittently in the sky over Boston today.

Old-timers among residents of the city said they recalled having seen a similar apparition, and that their parents, or perhaps grandparents, told them it was "the sun."

Also noted was another curious phenomenon, described by the photographers as "holes in the sky" through which appeared a strange blue hue.

Drowns Trying To Save Her Son

PALMER, July 22—In a vain attempt to save her only child from drowning, Mrs. Arlene Ellis, 32, gave her life today.

Scene of the double tragedy was an abandoned bridge over Quabog River, a short distance from town, where local residents hold night swimming parties.

Mrs. Ellis and her eight-year-old son, Allard D. Ellis, had gone to watch half a dozen of their friends swim.

At 1:30 this morning the boy wandered too near the edge of the bridge and toppled into the water. With a scream, his mother plunged in to save him.

She had not waited to remove any clothing and sank from sight.

While two men continually dived to recover the bodies another ran two miles to the Blanchardville sub-station of the Central Massachusetts Electric Company.

Palmer police, notified by telephone, rushed to the scene and recovered Mrs. Ellis' body with grappling irons. Several hours later the boy's body was pulled from the water.

Surviving the drowned mother and son is Lionel Ellis, the father, a Palmer WPA worker.

'Something Rotten' in England?

LONDON, July 22 (AP)—Fiery William Gallagher, Communist member of Parliament, today made the shortest speech of the current session of the House of Commons. It was on the government bill covering holidays with pay. He said:

"I only want to say one thing. This is a rotten bill. It comes from a rotten government. And it represents a rotten system."

QUINCY, July 22—A 6-year-old child ran screaming, "Mama! Mama! the sun!" but by the time neighbors reached their front yards to scan the skies they were driven indoors by another deluge.

BULLETIN

WORCESTER, July 22—Worcester police today reported New England's greatest optimist—a young mother whose child was found playing dressed in a sun suit.

A strange new ailment of epidemic proportions swept Boston and the rest of New England today.

Thousands of cases were reported, marked by symptoms principally of "oricks" in the neck.

Other symptoms of the disease, doctors said, were the strange actions of its victims, described as suddenly standing stock-still in the middle of the streets, snapping their heads back and shouting:

"There it is!" "Where?—No, it isn't!" "Yes it is!—right there!"

SUN DELUSION

The victims, it was found, were laboring under the delusion—in fact, insisted—that they had seen THE SUN.

"I saw it! It was only for a

Dodgers-Cards To Test Yellow Ball

NEW YORK, July 22 (INS)—An experiment designed to test whether a yellow ball, in place of the traditional white sphere, is easier on the eyes of major league ball players will be tried out here August 2.

On that day, in one game of a doubleheader at Ebbets Field between Brooklyn and St. Louis, the yellow ball will be given its major league test.

Gerald Finberg and Muggsy, His Best Friend

Where Doctors Failed!

New Pet Dog Cures Boy, 10

LAWRENCE, July 22—"Muggsy," a nine-months-old fox terrier and comparative newcomer, today is an honored member of the family of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Finberg on Dewey street here—the happiest home in the city.

Gerald, 10-year-old son of the Finbergs, became so enchanted as he fed ice cream to his new pup that he forgot that he himself had not been able to swallow food for three and a half years—and he swallowed.

Gerald was a victim of an attack of infantile paralysis in October, 1935. The muscles of his throat were paralyzed so he could not contract them to eat. Although he spent three years in hospitals, doctors finally gave up his case as hopeless, his parents said.

According to the parents, Gerald would have to be fed through a tube forced from his mouth to his stomach until he would become so weak that could no longer be done. Then—death.

But "Muggsy" cured him.

Gerry, a involuntary act as he laughed delightedly at watching the little brown and white pup lap ice cream from a spoon "taught" his muscles how to act again, doctors said.

Today the boy can swallow ice cream and water and soup.

And "Muggsy," who can stand on his hind legs to "ask" for food, may have anything in the Finberg home he wants to eat and lap it from saucer or spoon.
